OLD-TIME DANCES ARE ALSO ENJOYED

Fife And Drum Corps Traverses City In Interest Of Day's Outing

With pleasant weather indicated, descendants of Lawrence county's pioneer families were gathering early this afternoon at Cascade Park for their 29th annual reunion.

Members of the committee have been working hard for the success of the affair, and seemingly a greater interest has been aroused in today's gathering, than in many years which should result in a record-breaking attendance.

Old Time Costume Pageant

At 1:30, the Old Timers had assembled at the pavilion, where the old time costume pageant was to be staged as the first event on the program. This brought together a much larger showing of the wardrobes worn by the ancestors of New Castle and Lawrence County people in years gone by, when these pioneer settlers were laying the foundation for the present thriving community.

Following the costume pageant, there was round and square dancing, the kind our parents and grandparents enjoyed in the years gone by, concluding with a basket picnic in the grove.

The fife and drum corps of the Sons of Union Veterans traversed

Reynoldstowners Again In Reunion

Twenty-Eighth Annual Gathering Takes Place At Aiken School

MANY FEATURES MARK OCCASION

Beaming faces, friendly greetings and handclasps, with a "glad to see you" feeling, was much in evidence at the 28th annual reunion of the Reynoldstown school pupils and teachers, at the old W. N. Aiken School house on Tuesday afternoon, August 13. It brought together "Old Timers" numbering seventy, and proved one of the most successful reunions ever held by this distinguished group.

Mrs. Thomas McGuirk, president, called the meeting to order, at the clang of the old school bell, and presided in a most efficient manner. She introduced Miss Laura Warnock to fulfill the office of secretary for Mrs. Ella Pollock, who has been so faithful in her appointed position, and who was missed at this gathering owing to illness.

Rev. S. W. Young, Ph. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Wellsville, O., led in prayer, and a welcome was extended by Mrs. McGuirk, to all assembled. While another year had rolled around, and some of the original number of pupils up to 1890 had passed on, she spoke touching words of the beautiful tradition of friendship which

Huge Bargain Array Ready For Shoppers In City On Thursday

Reveille blows Thursday morning for a lot of sleepy dollars that have been slumbering in the bottom of the family purse. A lot of dollars are going to "git up and git" for Dollar Day is on in the down-town business district.

And what a Dollar Day! Not just a bargain day where you get a few cents knocked off a good sized purchase but a day when a dollar reaches out and encircles a bundle that two ordinary dollars would have to stretch for.

Over forty merchants of the down-town section are co-operating in the Dollar Day event and every one of them has gone the limit in bargains. Smaller articles that retailed for over a dollar are cut back to the cart wheel basis while the larger articles of merchandise are given the benefit of such sharp reductions that one dollar represents a lot more than Uncle Sam has marked on it.

It's going to be a day of real bargains for the thrifty shopper. From the time the stores open until they close they are undoubtedly going to be busy trading merchandise for dollars and the turnover in business on Thursday should be large.

Tomorrow is the day, Thursday, August 15. Dig down deep and bring up some of those old sized dollar bills and then draft them into service in the bargain army on Thursday.

Four Convicted In Murder Case Await Sentence

Schweitzer And His Three Girl Companions In State Of Collapse

ALL WILL RECEIVE LIFE SENTENCE

Tried For Killing Howard C. Dickinson, New York Attorney

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Aug. 14—A young Detroit hoodlum and three girls convicted of killing Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney for $134 he carried, were in a state of collapse today awaiting formal sentence to life imprisonment.

They will be brought before Judge John A. Boyne for sentence tomorrow. William Schweitzer, 27 year old second-rate "hood" will probably go to Marquette prison, Michigan's "Siberia." The girls, Florence Jackson, 24, Loretta Jackson, 27 and Jean Miller, 26, are expected to be committed to the Detroit house of correction.

A jury was out five hours and 48 minutes before finding the quartet guilty. The jury recommended leniency for the women, but the recommendation has no effect since life is mandatory for first degree murder in Michigan. The state has no death penalty.

All three of the girls fainted when they heard the verdict and had to be carried from the courtroom.

Ohio Governor Meets President

Politicians In Furore Over Possibilities Of Conference At Washington

RUMOR ELECTION FIGURES IN TALK

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—A meeting here today between President Roosevelt and Gov. Martin L. Davey (D) of Ohio, had the politicians in quite a furore.

Rumors were flying thick and fast that Davey, who has been having his troubles over administration work-relief in his state, was coming to Washington with an idea of sand-bagging the Roosevelt administration into playing ball.

Ace-In-The-Hole

As the story went, the Ohio governor's ace-in-the-hole to regain recognition as state work-relief dictator would be a veiled threat to call a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of congressman-at-large Charles V. Truax.

A state-wide election in Ohio at this time would afford a far more definite test of the Roosevelt administration's present strength than the recent special election in Rhode Island, which went surprisingly Republican. Leaders of both parties are agreed on this score. Ohio is noted as the state which has never voted wrong in a presidential election in the nation's history.

To Discuss Relief

Officially, Governor Davey was

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

(Special To The News)

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 14.—This Alaska is a great country. If they can just keep from being taken over by the U. S., they got a great future. This is the greatest aviation-minded city of its size in the world. There is only 30,000 white people in Alaska and there is 70 commercial planes operating every day, in winter on skiis.

Edmonton, Canada, is similar for their country, they run clear to the Arctic. Both countries have developed marvelous pilots. What they need now is a mail line from Seattle up here.

There may be some doubt about the Louisiana purchase being a mistake but when Seward in '68 bought Alaska for $7,000,000 he even made up for what we had overpaid the Indians for Manhattan Island.

Mullentowners Have Reunion

Large Crowd Attends Sixth Annual Reunion Of School Tuesday

LINC LOWE SENDS CROWD MEMENTO

With a larger crowd than usual in attendance, the sixth annual reunion of the Mullentown school was held Tuesday, August 13, at Lakewood Beach. When the old bell of the school building rang the students began coming from all directions. It had hardly ceased to ring when Cassie Kane of Toledo, O., arrived to be followed soon by Edna Harris Hanlon of Canton, O., and then Bessie Wolf of Pittsburgh. From then on the crowd increased, coming from the four corners of the compass.

After a pleasant time visiting, the crowd was transported to Lakewood Beach where an enjoyable day of reunion was held. Like all Mullentown affairs it was a day of enjoyment and the crowd left, promising to return for next year's reunion.

Many From Distance.

Many of the crowd came from a distance. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Crowther and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Powell of Aliquippa; Cassie Sankey Kane of Toledo, O.; Mrs. H. C. Fulkerson of Fort Pierce, Fla.; Mrs. Minnie C. Leathers, formerly Miss Minnie Middlehurst, of Beaver, Pa.; Charles L. Smith and wife of Sharon, Pa.; Bessie Cannell Wolf of Pittsburgh; Minnie Sherlock Collins of Sharon, Mrs. Hazel Webster Tessmer of Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Hanlon of Canton, O.; Mrs. W. E. Cochran of Cleveland; Mrs. Hattie Christy, Cleveland; Daisy Perdue Esch, Beaver Falls; Mrs. E. M. Hill Burk, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. Allie McComb Hall of North East, Theodore Tyler and family of Warren, O.

During the afternoon a business session was held with President J. Herbert McIlvenny presiding. After the minutes were read and other preliminaries cleared away the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Sylvia Sturdevant, who had charge of the program. Letters of regret were read from Mrs. Charles Hall of

Commissioner Race Will Be Lively Affair

Twenty-One Republican Candidates, Eight Democratic, One Prohibition

99 FOR COUNTY AND CITY OFFICES FILE

Time Limit For Filing Expired Tuesday Evening—To Draw Ticket Places

Twenty-one candidates for county commissioner on the Republican ticket had filed nomination papers at the county commissioners office when the time limit expired on Tuesday evening. Eight had filed on the Democratic ticket and one on the Prohibition.

Such an array of candidates—29 in all—for one office has seldom been seen in Lawrence county. But the voters will probably see plenty of them between now and the primary. In fact it looks as though Mr. and Mrs. Voter might as well lay off work, or change their regular occupations to that of entertaining candidates.

And the interesting part of it is that every one of the 29 appears to be confident of winning the nomination. When the big fuss is all over and the votes are counted it will probably be a source of satisfaction to the defeated candidates to look back over the track and say that they "were in the race' 'anyhow.

Just now the candidates seem to feel that with so many in the field their individual chances are helped.

Ten For Prothonotary.

Second in point of numbers for the nomination is the office of prothonotary. There are an even ten out for this office, six on the Republican ticket, three on the Democratic and one on the Prohibition.

County treasurer comes third with five Republican candidates, four Democratic and one Prohibition.

For the office of county controller there are two candidates on the Republican ticket, two on the Democratic and one on the Prohibition.

For coroner there are two candidates on the Republican ticket, one on the Democratic and one Prohibition.

Twelve For Mayor.

For city offices there is also quite

Hoover Showing Lively Interest In U. S. Politics

Confers With Outstanding Leaders Of G. O. P. In New York

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Whether or not Herbert Hoover intends to seek the GOP nomination for the presidency remained unknown today, but one thing had become clear. His interest in the current political situation is deep, indeed.

Although the former president insitsed his visit to New York was for business purposes, he conferred with outstanding leaders of his party in the east and today Col. Theodore Roosevelt one of his callers, stripped away much of the mystery surrounding the conversations.

"Of course we talked about politics," Col. Roosevelt said. "It is silly to think we didn't. We are deeply interested in things political and politics is naturally the one thing we would talk about."

TAKES FAMILY TO WATCH KILLING

Shouting, "Come on get dressed, we're going to kill a rat," Ralph Still, of Akron, O., loaded his wife and three children into an automobile and drove to the home of his friend, Ray Hetrick, where, according to police, he shot the latter to death. Still said he suspected his wife of intimacy with his friend. Photos show Mrs. Still and their three children who were forced to witness the tragedy, and Still, left, with Detective Howard Turner, who is holding the murder weapon.

County Grangers In Annual Picnic

State Lecturer Voices Opposition To Revision Of State Constitution

OUTING IS HELD AT CASCADE PARK

To several hundred persons, members of the Lawrence County Pomona Grange, Tuesday was a day of gaiety, one which will not be forgotten for sometime.

Under a hot August sun, grangers from every district in the county gathered at Cascade Park for their annual outing which was a success in every detail.

In the grove of the park, at 10:00 o'clock, the grange members met and renewed old acquaintances. At 12:00 o'clock, a delicious picnic dinner was served. A most enjoyable program, presented at the band stand, followed.

Musical selections given by Thomas McCullough and Gladys Howell, were thoroughly enjoyed by the gathering. W. J. Fullerton, master of the Lawrence County Pomona Grange, called on State Master J. A. Boak, of New Castle, who introduced Mrs. Ira Gross of Johnstown, lecturer of the state grange. She spoke on, "Do We Need A New Constitution".

Oppose Constitution Change

Mrs. Gross paraphrased Van Dyke's poem, (Four Things A Man Must Do). "Four Things A Grange Must Do", if it would prove its purpose true, to think—clearly without conclusion; to love—sincerely fellow man; to act—purely from honest motives; to trust—in God and Heaven securely. Because of these, the grange feels it can not go along with the plan to change the constitution," Mrs. Gross stated.

The speaker also said, "The Grange is non partisan and because we believe in this, we are opposed to the selection of the delegates as proposed by the act". Some of Mrs. Gross' reasons for opposing a new constitution were: "The time is not favorable for deliberate judgement on so important a matter; the election of delegates by senatorial districts as provided by the bill does not give rural districts and localities of the state as direct and complete representation as could have

Wealthy Chicago Man Is Murdered

Kenneth A. Morrison Is Found Shot To Death In Auto

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Kenneth A. Morrison, 46, wealthy assistant comptroller of the Chicago Park district, was found murdered today in the rear seat of his sedan.

With blood streaming from a single bullet wound in his right cheek, Morrison was seated upright on the rear seat, his legs crossed, a cigarette dangling from his lips.

Police said robbery apparently was the motive. The victim's pockets were turned inside out. His rifled wallet was on the seat beside him.

The lights of the parked car were still burning.

Mr. Eakin had been helping the threshers during the day and was quite tired from his efforts, which is believed to have been partially responsible for the accident.

He was brought to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where the fracture was reduced. He will probably be confined to the hospital for some time.

Ethiopia Says Arms Embargo Not Neutrality

"True Neutrality" Of League Is Questioned By Haile Selassie

CLAIMS EMBARGO RULE FAVORS ITALY

Ethiopia Is Barred From Securing Arms For Defense, Says Emperor

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—In the strongest protest he has yet filed with the League of Nations concerning the threatened invasion of his realm by Italian armies, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia today questioned the "true neutrality" of the league's position.

With a strong inference that the league was favoring Italy, Ethiopia filed a note protesting against the continued Italian military preparations and against the embargoes placed on arms to Ethiopia by leading league powers.

Unfair To Ethiopia

The Ethiopian note pointed out the embargoes, even though they applied to both Italy and Ethiopia, were unfair to the African empire because it had no arms factries of its own, whereas Italy has well supplied her forces with arms and munitions from her own plants.

The Negus questioned whether the league considers its position one of "true neutrality," and asked whether it would remain unmoved in the face of the increasingly dangerous situation and assume responsibility in the eyes of the world for allowing military preparations to continue unchecked "for the massacre of a people who menace nobody."

The protest, considered here an unusually strong appeal for league action, was timed with the opening

Shade Tree Body Urges That Weeds Be Cut In City

Appeals To All Citizens To Join Movement To Cut Down The Weeds

New Castle Shade Tree Commission today issued an urgent appeal to property owners in all sections of the city to "Cut the Weeds!" Even if your property is in fine shape a little effort on a vacant lot in your community would work wonders for the civic improvement of the city, it was pointed out. All New Castle is asked to join the co-operative move to get the weeds cut down all over the city.

The commission also asked that it be pointed out that permission must be secured from that body before trees that are in the cartway of streets can be cut down. Report was made recently of two magnificent shade trees being cut down without authority.

Where the mountains kiss the sunset, and the tree tops touch the sky, where the elders droop and whisper to the brooklet flowing by, all these places I am thinking would be just the spot for me, but I'm busy that's the answer, weathers only eighty three.

PITTSBURGH BOYS ARE SAFE

Five Thought Drowned, Found

Had Camped Out On Island In Ohio River Over Night After Trip

MADE JOURNEY IN HOME-MADE BOAT

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14. — Missing approximately 24 hours, five Northside boys were safe at their homes today, their disappearance cleared up in a tale of youthful adventure eclipsed only by the story of the fictional Tom Sawyer.

The youths, John Nigrelli, 13, Alex Sewald, 13, Alfred Reilly, 12, and Clarence and Bill Harmon, 15 and 17 respectively, set out into the Ohio river Monday afternoon in a home-made boat. Shortly afterward they were reported missing.

An all-night search failed to reveal any trace of the boys. They had decided to camp out on a nearby island they passed on their river journey. Their camp was so close to searchers the boys could see the lights of authorities hunting for them, but they had no idea they were being sought.

The next day they started back home, eventually arriving, tired but safe.

been secured by legislative districts. The proposal to increase the borrowing capacity of the Commonwealth from $1,000.000 to $50,000,000 is unwise and not necessary." She advocated "Pay As You Go". Mrs. Gross' address pleased the crowd.

"Challenge Of Machinery"

Ira Gross, of Johnstown, past lecturer, spoke on, "The Challenge of Machinery". "The grange must meet the challenge of machinery by maintaining the human touch. We can not hope to maintain human touch through codes, but must through human conscience. We must go back to the same faith and trust of our forefathers", he said among other things.

During the presentation of the program, the Westfield Grange quartet, J. W. Brewster, Marie Leslie, John Miller and William McCombs, sang a selection which met with the approval of the audience. Following a brief business session, in which W. J. Fullerton presided, the picnickers assembled near the old pony track, where a sports program brought to a close the event. The outing was most successful.

Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Fannie Greer Johns of San Diego, Cal., and T. S. McAnlis of New Castle. Mr. McAnlis is one of, if not the oldest, living teacher of the Mullentown school and he regretted exceedingly that ill health kept him away.

From Linc Lowe.

An American league baseball, properly autographed, was sent by Bobby "Linc" Lowe, Detroit, who in writing to President McIlvenny stated how sorry he was to be absent. The ball will be preserved as a memento from a famous American athlete.

During the past year but two deaths were reported. They were Edward Haggerty, New Castle, and James Dewberry of Girard, O. Mr. Dewberry attended the Mullentown school as early as 1872.

Hugh Hannon took charge of the pep singing and many of the old timers were introduced. C. E. Fullerton, a former principal of the school, spoke briefly; Mrs. Ella Stevens read an original poem and little Vivian Lemley gave an exhibition of toe dancing. H. M. Reynolds spoke briefly and an original poem was read by President McIlvenny. Mrs. Maude Briates presented a reading.

C. E. Fullerton was the oldest teacher present while Miss Peggie Griffith was the youngest. They were photographed together. During the afternoon a short program of sports was engaged in and prizes awarded to Mrs. Taylor and William Brown. Two sumptuous picnic meals were enjoyed and the entire day voted a splendid success by the Mullentowners. The committee in charge for the 1936 reunion follows:

General chairman, Pearl White; reception, Ima E. Fullerton; coffee, Annie Wysner; arrangements, Mrs. Walter McConnell; sports, Dan Phillips; table, Mrs. Marie Wells Phillips; program, Mrs. Ida Suber; transportation, Dan Reeble; entertainment, Mrs. Sylvia Sturdevant; financial committee, C. Ed Brown; baskets, Clare Glass; publicity, Sylvia Sturdevant, J. H. McIlvenny and C. Ed Brown.

coming here only to discuss Ohio relief measures. It was significant, however, that the White House carefully announced he had asked for the conference. Overnight, one could almost detect an atmosphere of watchful waiting, this despite the fact Davey has intimated $500,000 is too much for Ohio to pay to choose a successor to Truax for one year. A special primary would cost that much.

Those qualified to voice administration sentiment were somewhat cautious. It was stated definitely, however, that President Roosevelt could not be involved in state politics, with the possible exception of New York where he is a voter.

Washington, Aug. 14. — Reports that Governor Martin L. Davey (D) of Ohio, would hold the threat of a special primary in his state over the Roosevelt administration as a means of procuring special consideration in allotment of work relief funds faded into thin air when the governor reached the White House today.

The governor denied emphatically any intention of calling a special primary to fill the vacancy created by the recent death of Representative-at-Large Charles Truax. Such a primary, if held at this time, would constitute an all-important test of the Roosevelt administration's strength.

REYNOLDSTOWNERS AGAIN IN REUNION

must carry on, and told of the organization of the reunion instigated by the late John Snyder and W. N. Aiken.

Sing Old Songs

"Ye Olde Tyme School Songs" including "America" "School Days" "Long, Long Ago" and other numbers, were sung at intervals during the afternoon, with Miss Lottie Nicklin leading. Her sister, Mrs. Hattie Cromlish played the piano assompaniment.

R. H. Whaley, treasurer, read his report, and a vote of appreciation of his faithfulness in his office during these past years, was given recognition by the participants. At this time, it was unanimously decided to hold the Reynoldstown reunion in 1936 at one of the local institutions, with each paying for their dinner. A committee appointed by Mrs. McGuirk to take charge of the place and menu, included the following: Mrs. Lew Marshall, Mrs. Scott Hamilton and Miss Eva Donaldson. It is to take place the day before Old Timers Day.

Special mention was given the three eldest teachers, who had taught in W. N. Aiken School during their life time, namely, Miss Eva Donaldson, Miss Kate Stockman and Mrs. Lavine Dunrante, the latter carrying the honors of being the senior one named. Ten of her pupils, were assembled at this gathering.

Those called upon, who gave interesting speeches of "days gone by" in their original manner, some being humorous, others being intellectual in their recollections, not forgetting tributes of those unable to attend and those who have passed on, were as follows: O. J. H. Hartsuff who reminisced how he was "favored" by the teachers, and keeping study hours in an uproar; Jim Mayberry who told of the progress of a number of the pupils of the institution, who proved to be the real "go-getters" in reaching their present positions; William J. Cromie of Philadelphia, related the three classes of people in the world, and pointing out the leaders and the necessity of the utilyzing of leasure time, to advantage and disadvantage" that held the interest of everyone; vice-president Fred L. Rentz to whom special tribute was paid, and who visualized the school and its surroundings of the days gone by, and compared it with that of to-day, noting the improvements, and not forgetting several humorous recollections of some of those present; F. H. Elston of Wilkinsburg told in an interesting manner of his impressions of when he went to school, and some of the happenings. Rev. Norris A. White of the local First Methodist church, made fitting remarks, as did Charles Phipps of Cleveland, O., who gave an inspiring message of his pleasure of being numbered among those to share this happy occasion and brought greetings from some who were unable to attend. "Lew" Genkinger, another prominent man, who has had much to do with the progress of these gatherings, told in his way, of the joy in being able to share the reunions, and "swapping" tales that were amusing.

Pioneer Reunion

The Reynoldstown reunion is the pioneer for such memorable gatherings annually, and the time is spent to advantage, in re-establishing friendships, chatting over those times that were of a joyous nature as well as being tinged with a bit of sadness, omitting programs of stunts and contests. As a fitting closing, they all joined in partaking of a delicious dinner, served in an adjoining room, by a committee composed of Mrs. Charles McCandless, Mrs. Scott Hamilton, Mrs. W. E. Brown and Miss Eva Donaldson. They handled the situation efficiently, and coffee was in charge of Mrs. R. C. Clark, Mrs. Clara Stockman and Mrs. James Waldron.

Much of the day's success is credited to the warm welcome extended by each of the reception committee, who were, R. H. Whaley, William Butz, Fred L. Rentz, O. H. P. Green, Lew Genkinger, R. H. McCann, James Mayberry, Ed Marshall, Robert Hainer, Charles Patterson and J. L. McCaskey.

An added feature, was the viewing of old time school pictures brought by several of the members, and the passing out of books sent down by Mrs. Pollock of literature as well as scenes that refreshened memories of those in attendance.

A motion was passed, that is of importance and will interest many, to the effect, that, all pupils who attended Reynolds school up to 1900, are eligible to join the association. It was formerly limited to those up to the year of 1890."

The same officers were retained to serve another year, president, Mrs. Thos. McGuirk; vice-president, Fred L. Rentz; secretary, Mrs. Ella Pollock; treasurer, R. H. Whaley.

This informal period of renewing friendships, was thoroughly enjoyed, and a congenial atmosphere marked by a foundation of steadfastness and loyalty, added much to the pleasure of the afternoon.

Out of town members present, included William J. Cromie of Philadelphia, Rev. Charles Phipps of Cleveland, O.; F. H. Elston of Wilkinsburg, and Rev. S. W. Young, P. H. D., of Wellsville, O., who concluded the days festivities with prayer.

ETHIOPIA SAYS ARMS EMBARGO NOT NEUTRALITY

of Paris talks between diplomats of Great Britain, France and Italy to debate the impending war.

Ethiopia previously has protested to individual powers against the arms embargoes, but until now has refrained from bringing the matter before the leeague.

Can't Obtain Arms

After a brief preamble, the Ethiopian note said:

"The Italian government is continuing to send troops and ammunition to East Africa, and it is ceaselessly manufacturing arms and instruments of war with the solemnly avowed intention of using them against Ethiopia.

"There is no manufacture of arms or munitions in Ethiopia, which today finds it absolutely impossible to obtain a means of defense outside its own frontiers.

"Wherever it attempts to obtain them, it meets with prohibitions and embargoes.

"Is that true neutrality? Is that just? Will the council remain unmoved in this situation, which is growing steadily worse?

"Will the council assume responsibility in the eyes of the world for allowing preparations to continue unchecked for the massacre of a people who menace nobody?"

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Large Projects Are Sought Here

W. P. A. Wants Projects That Will Give Employment To Large Numbers

While projects are continuing to be sumbitted to the Works Progress Administration most of them are such as will employ relatively small groups of workers. The necessity for large projects still exists and unless a number are submitted, the number of men put to work will be comparatively few.

Efforts are being made by J. W. Ely, who has charge of the white collar projects to interest political sub-divisions in the projects that would employ men and women who have office experience. Appointments are to be made with the commissioners with council and the school authorities towards the end that such class of workers may to put to work.

On September 9 the group will gather at the same place, with Clara Rubies and her committee in charge.

D. U. V. Members Meet

Daughters of Union Veterans members met Tuesday in their quarters at the City Hall, with Mrs. Mary Kurtz, president, in charge. Business was discussed and a basket picnc for Monday evening August 19 at 6:30 o'clock, was planned. Another event is scheduled for September 10, in the form of a card party.

The usual informal social period concluded activities.

Carter Reunion

Twelfth annual reunion of the Carter family was held at the Mercer Fair Grounds Saturday, August 10, the occasion being attended by 64 members of the connection.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, dinner was served in Floral Hall, after which many of the group took part in the sports provided for entertainment. Prizes were won by Edwin Carter, Everette and Elton Creighton, Mae Carter, Bessie Creighton, Elwilda Cummings and John Creighton, Jr.

At the business session called by the president, Everette Creighton, the following officers were elected: President, John Hawthorne; secretary-treasurer, Laura Carter. Several committees were appointed.

The day was most successful. It was voted to have the 1936 gathering at Grove City Memorial Park.

Wiener Roast

Girls of the C. E. club had a wiener roast Sunday evening with about 20 present. The evening was spent in games.

The committee was composed of Mae Davis, chairman, Fruney Scala and Pary Paoline.

Kennedy Reunion

Friends and descendants of James L. and Rebecca Kennedy will gather at Rock Springs Saturday, August 24, for the annual reunion.

W. W. M. G. CLASS HAS OUTING AT CASCADE

Members of the W. W. M. G. Class of the Third United Presbyterian church, enjoyed a hamburg fry at Cascade Park, Tuesday evening with twenty five in attendance.

During the early hours, some took a dip in the pool, while others turned their attention to the various park amusements and other diversions until time to prepare the feast of hamburgs. This was well in progress at 10 o'clock, and the committee in charge who conducted this feature so efficiently, included Margaret Sankey, Jane Kyle, Helen Kyle, Plummer Gibson and Mrs. Ernest King.

Birthday Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Oran E. Miller's home on the Pulaski road was the scene of a pleasant social gathering Monday evening which started with a chicken dinner served at 6:30. The event honored the birthdays of Oran Edgar Miller and Ora Edna Garrett.

The table was prettily decorated, a color scheme of yellow and white being carried out in the table appointment. Mrs. Miller was assisted in serving by her daughters. A special guest was Mrs. John Patton, of Alturas, Fla., who has been visiting in the homes of her brother and sister for a few weeks. Mrs. Patton will return home next week.

THE LOCAL VOTERS' DILEMMA

WITH the final day for filing of nominations for city and county offices having arrived, some idea of the large army of candidates seeking party nominations in the city and county is presented.

There is hardly an office of any consequence that will not be without its battle royal at the primaries. There are many acceptable candidates but the voters' dilemma is to pick out the best.

Certain it is, that the average voter is confronted with a bigger problem in casting his ballot at the coming primaries than ever before. Unquestionably it is the most open and freely contested race for party selections that this county has ever experienced.

And, as usual, the after the primary campaigns will probably be featured with the efforts of some of the disappointed to bring about the defeat of those who get by the primaries and are nominated. There should be some effort centered on the idea that those who have entered the primary are obligated by party practices to support the choice of that election, in November.

But, just imagine, by way of a side topic of the moment, what would have happened if Lawrence county had been equipped with voting machines! The number of candidates would have to be limited in some manner, in order to allow use of the machines.

Anyhow, it's going to be a great race from now until September 17!

VACATION RELAXATION

Men are themselves while on vacation even though their wives vote down their choice of vacation places. The comment of a prominent clergyman that "we are rarely at homey ease in our vacation" is correct only in its application to "common people" who elect to spend their two weeks at an ultra-fashionable resort.

Even the mighty fall from their high-hat existence when they leave dull care behind and don holiday togs. If there is ever a time when a man is truly himself it is when he is on vacation. There he forgets himself and lets go. Different men desire and require different modes of relaxation and recreation but the result is the same.

Vacations are being devoted more to rest this year than for a number of years. Fewer vacationists are exhausting themselves with auto tours that are too long. Even the ocean voyage is being used more for rest than for going from here to there.

CHANCE FOR NEW DEAL REFERENDUM

Certain Democratic leaders have been protesting that the Rhode Island debacle of last week constituted no dependable index of public sentiment on the New Deal, because the election was confined to one congressional district, because just one section of New England was involved—and a few other unconvincing becauses.

If the Democrats, however, are eager to face a contest that will unequivocally submit their cause to a cross-section vote, not of one district, but of a whole state in the Midwest, they have an opportunity right at hand.

The death of Ohio's Representative-at-large Charles V. Truax, Democrat, leaves a vacancy in that state's congressional delegation. This vacancy may be filled before congress reconvenes in January if Democratic Governor Davey calls a special election for that purpose.

Republicans have challenged the president and Democratic leaders to hold this election, to permit the whole state of Ohio, which Postmaster General Farley has already claimed "in the bag" for Roosevelt next year, to express its opinion of New Deal policies in a state-wide congressional contest.

ATTENDING TO OUR OWN BUSINESS

If Italy's determination to war upon Ethiopia encourages Germany's objectives in Austria, as it undoubtedly will, the United States is faced squarely with the problem of keeping out of another European war. Writing in The Philadelphia Inquirer, Frank H. Simonds says we can do this by minding our own business, which is precisely what the masses of the American people want our government to do.

We can keep out of a general European war, says Mr. Simonds, not by passing laws in advance, but by taking a definite and wise course when war breaks out. This would involve the waiving of rights, the avoiding of insistence upon those privileges which belong legally to the neutral. Technical rights to trade with belligerents must be modified. Citizens who insist upon traveling and trading in the war zones must not expect us to call out the army and navy in defense of their rights as neutrals.

Mr. Wilson's insistence upon those rights got us into the World War, with its terrible cost and losses. But European issues are no concern of ours and American citizens who muddle into difficulties should be forced to assume the responsibility. Damages for material losses may be recovered by arbitration.

Meanwhile, our government must realize that any attempts to interfere will not prevent determined belligerents from going to war, but will only tend to entangle us in the struggle. If our policy is to be one of neutrality we must avoid any acts or words which would compromise that position should war come. There is little likelihood of our becoming involved if we attend strictly to our own business.

LIVE IN THE PRESENT AND FUTURE

There are some persons who particularly enjoy stories of their own past experience and inflicted them frequently on their associates.

Certain groups of friends enjoy exchanging recollections of their association in the past.

But it is noticeable that the more and the farther persons progress the less time they have for dwelling in the past.

When you meet an old friend do you begin to rehash the past or do you show your interest in what that person is doing in the present?

Many interesting, ambitious and progressively aggressive persons do not wish to be reminded of the past.

They are not ashamed of the past.

That is not it, at all, but the future seems so much more important.

They have gained perspective; they are getting at the true meaning of life and have begun to feel the time is short to do all that should be done.

So save your tales of what you did in bygone days, and get so full of interesting knowledge that you can forget the past ir the light of a glorious future.

Then parents will seek you as a guest when their children are at home.

HIS WEAKNESS

He danced with remarkable grace.
In the latest of fashions he dressed.
He was always the life of the place.
On his lips there was ever a jest.
He often played golf with the pro,
And he set the girls' pulses athrob.
He was handsome to look at but, oh,
He couldn't hang onto a job.

He could sing any song that was played.
As a wisecracker he was a scream.
A hit at all parties he made.
He had ginger and pepper and steam.
There was little he seemed not to know.
He was all of the corn on the cob.
The girls raved about him, but, oh,
He couldn't hang onto a job.

At tennis he did rather well.
He could swim under water with ease.
The truth of this marvel to tell,
He had all of the graces which please.
He was great as a young maiden's beau,
But later his wife used to sob
She'd a marvelous husband, but, oh,
He couldn't hang onto a job.

The World At A Glance

Single Taxers Gaining.
New Levies Strengthen Idea.
Henry George Gives Thought.

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th street

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Single taxers seem to be gaining, from the amount of publicity appearing. There may be a reason. The disciples of Henry George do not believe in income taxes.

But would the putting of all taxes on land not socialize land? That question has been asked repeatedly.

We have gone to Henry George's "Progress and Poverty" for the answer. In this volume—now considered a classic on economics—written 56 years ago, Henry George said:

"When it is first proposed to put all taxes upon the value of land, and thus confiscate rent, all land holders are likely to take alarm, and there will not be wanting appeals to the fears of small farm and homestead owners, who will be told that this is a proposition to rob them of their hard-earned property.

"But a moment's reflection will show that this proposition should commend itself to all whose interests as land holders do not largely exceed their interests as laborers or capitalists, or both. And further consideration will show that though the large land holders may lose relatively, yet even in their case there will be an absolute gain. For the increase in production will be so great that labor and capital will gain very much more than will be lost to private land ownership, while in these gains, and in the greater ones involved in a more healthy social condition, the whole community, including the land owners themselves, will share."

WHY ON LAND ALONE?

Why did Henry George declare for taxes on land values alone? He answers:

"All other monopolies are trivial in extent as compared with the monopoly of land. And the value of land expressing a monopoly, pure and simple, is in every respect fitted for taxation. . .

"Taxes levied upon the value of land cannot check production in the slightest degree, until they exceed rent, or the value of the land taken annually, for unlike taxes upon commodities, or exchange, or capital, or any of the tools or processes of production, they do not bear upon production.

"The value of land does not express the reward of production, as does the value of crops, of cattle, of buildings, or any of the things which are styled personal property and improvements. It expresses the exchange value of monopoly. It is not in any case the creation of the individual who owns the land; it is created by the growth of the community. Hence the community can take it all without in any way lessening the incentive to improvement or in the slightest degree lessening the production of wealth.

"Taxes may be imposed upon the value of land until all rent is taken by the state, without reducing the wages of labor or the reward of capital one iota; without increasing the price of a single commodity, or making production in any way more difficult."

* * *

HENRY GEORGE'S BELIEF

A single tax—solely on land values—would check speculation and consequent depressions, Henry George said. He explained:

"Taxes on the value of land not only do not check production as do most other taxes, but they tend to increase production, by destroying speculative rent.

"How speculative rent checks production may be seen not only in the valuable land withheld from use, but in the paroxysms of industrial depression which, originating in the speculative advance in land values, propagate themselves over the whole civilized world, everywhere paralyzing industry, and causing more waste and probably more suffering than would a general war.

"Taxation which would take rent for public uses would prevent all this. While, if land were taxed to anything near its rental value, no one could afford to hold land that he is not using, and, consequently, land not in use would be thrown open to those who would use it.

"Settlement would be closer, and, consequently, labor and capital would be enabled to produce much more with the same exertion."

"There is yet an even more important way by which, through its effect upon distribution, the taking of rent to public uses by taxation would stimulate the production of wealth. . . .

"Tax manufacturers, and the effect is to check manufacturing.

"Tax improvements, and the effect is to lessen improvement.

"Tax commerce, and the effect is to prevent exchange.

"Tax capital, and the effect is to drive it away.

"But the whole value of land may be taken in taxation, and the only effect will be to stimulate industry, to open new opportunities to capital, and to increase the production of wealth."

He was the first man to put into practice cheap production, low selling price and national advertising the idea that made Henry Ford a near-billionaire."

Americans Consume Yearly 400,000 Miles Of Wieners

A mighty thing is the frankfurter, alias the "wiener," the "hot dog," the "Coney Island," the "half-smoke", the "red hot."

So avers John H. Moninger, of the Institute of American Meat Packers, Chicago, who offers a few statistics to prove his point.

No matter under what name it is known, the frankfurter, says Moninger, is no longer just something to be eaten on picnics or during the "seventh inning stretch." Nowadays, he said, the average American annually munches about 11 pounds of sausage, and 30 per cent of that amount is frankfurter, which is a lot of "wieners."

Altogether America accoun for 419,000,000 pounds of wieners each year, the meat expert has figured out.

And while the length and thickness vary, Mr. Moninger set an arbitrary length of five inches a sausage, and with 12 "five-inchers" to the pound, this country's yearly "hot dog" consumption amounts to 400,000 miles of wieners. And, in case you're interested in further comparison, 400,000 miles is equivalent to 16 times around the earth.

Court Clerk: Members of the jury, have you reached a verdict?

Jury: We have.

County Clerk: What do you find?

Jury: We find the judge hostile, biased and prejudiced; the witnesses either senile, dishonest, interested, carefully coached, previously convicted, or downright daffy; the prosecutor vindictive and rasping; the courtroom stuffy and poorly ventilated; the spectators giddy, morbidly curious; the seats in the courtroom uncomfortable; the proceedings unnecessarily long winded, tiresome and tedious; the exhibits voluminous and contradictory; in fact, we find everything exactly opposite to what it should be in a court of justice.

James A. Reed In New Attack

Former Missouri Senator In Bitter Attack On "Share-The-Wealth" Move

DECLARES PLAN IS OUT AND OUT ROBBERY

By PHIL FORTMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 14.—Naming a "preferred list" of three nationally prominent Democrats whom he said he would support in opposition to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, former U. S. Senator James A. Reed (D) of Missouri, today attacked the administration's "share the wealth" taxation program as "out and out robbery."

Unless the Democrats nominate one of the three men on his "preferred list," he warned, the Republicans, with a sound platform and a good candidate, can defeat the Democrats in the presidential election next year. Reed's "preferred candidates" were:

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

Former Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

"But even they would stand a show only if given a platform pledging adherence to the constitution," the white-haired statesman continued. "I believe that any of the three could defeat President Roosevelt for the nomination at the coming Democratic National convention."

Reed, in an interview as he passed through the city enroute to Fairview, Mich., for a vacation, turned most of his ire toward the "soak the rich" taxation proposed by President Roosevelt.

"The present administration," said Reed, "is a political faction harboring bureaucrats who ought to be put back to honest occupations. The gentlemen in Washington are perpetuating an unwhilesome combination of bolshevism, socialism and communism.

"Effort of the political faction in Washington to take money from one citizen and transfer it to another is pure robbery, just as much so as if it were brought about by use of a gun. The American people are honest and will not stand for this sort of thing very much longer."

Counterfeiter Ordered Held For Erie Court

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—Unable to provide $3,000 bond, William Shrewsbury, 34, charged wtih possesion and carrying of counterfeit notes, was ordered held for the September term of court at Erie today by U. S. Commissioner Roger Knox.

Shrewsbury was accused of passing the alleged spurious bills in the vicinity of Indiana and Blairsville, Pa. Greta Moor, arrested with him, did not appear before the commissioner today. She is at liberty under $2000 bond and will also face hearing at Erie.

Several witnesses appeared against Shrewsbury, including A. B. Watson, Blairsville chief of police, who took the man into custody. He described the capture of the couple at a Blairsville hotel.

When the black bear of India finds an ant-hill it takes but a few minutes to tear up the hard, cemented clay and lay the deep galleries bare; then putting its guttapercha muzzle to the mouths of each gallery, it draws such a blast of air through them that the industrious laboring ants are sucked into its gullet in drifts. Afterwards the bear digs right down to the royal chamber, licks up the bloated queen, and goes on his way.

LIGHTNING BOLT PLAYS WITH HIM

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—Here is what J. F. Botts, a farmer living near here, would tell you today what a terrific bolt of lightning did to his barn:

Tore a huge hole in the roof.

Blew a tire on his car out.

Burnt the paint off around the rims of four tires.

Burned hundreds of small holes in the car, as though it had been showered with acid.

On top of all that, the bolt burrowed deep holes in the ground beneath the tires.

There is no sense of humor in a luxurious 16-cylinder car. The occupants of the antique model have all the fun.

Read this wife's true "B.O." confession

"AFTER the first few months romance was gone. My husband became cool, indifferent. Did this always happen? No, for I had a friend married several years and still blissfully happy.

"One day I went to visit her in her beautiful new home. As she was showing me over it, I noticed Lifebuoy in the bathroom. Just to tease, I asked if she was afraid of 'offending'.

Her answer amazed me

"'I would be', she said, 'if I didn't use Lifebuoy. Before we were married, John and I made a pledge of mutual consideration in all things. And, of course, that includes taking no chances with 'B. O.'

"'I think that's a big part of our happiness together,' she went on. 'Oh, my dear, why don't you . . . It might make all the difference in the world. . .

"AND IT HAS! My husband and I are happy as newly-weds again—no, happier! We, too, now have a 'mutual consideration code'. And it includes Lifebuoy."

* * *

We have this actual letter in our files along with hundreds more like it. The name of the writer we shall never disclose. But her story is true. And what a warning it is to every last one of us—man, woman, married, single!

Even our nearest and dearest can't forgive "B.O." (body odor). Don't trust to luck. Make sure! Bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. Its rich, pore-purifying lather deodorizes, stops "B.O."

Improves Complexions

Deep-cleanses face pores; makes dull, lifeless complexions glow with healthy radiance. Yet tests on the skins of hundreds of women show Lifebuoy is more than 20 per cent milder than many so-called "beauty soaps".

LIFEBUOY HEALTH SOAP stops "B.O." (BODY ODOR)

New Census Plan Before President

Allocation Of $16,000,000 May Be Made For New U. S. Census

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Who's that knockin' at my door?

Within 30 days it will be the census man, if President Roosevelt approves a $16,000,000 allotment from the $4,000,000,000 work relief fund laid before him today by the allotment advisory board.

There will be 23,000 census takers—at least 90 per cent of them from the emergency relief rolls—taking a new and more complicated census than ever before attempted in the United States.

It will not only be the customary how many in the family, how old are you? and pa, and ma?, and the rest of the kids? But are you or they working? If not, how long since? And at what? And if so, for how long, and for what? And do you go to school, or did you ever go to school, or do you want to go to school? And if so, where and to study what?

Not only would the new census cover the unemployment situation past, present and prospective future, but it will be an occupational, youth and educational census, as an aid to solution of the relief problem, and for cooperative information for the new $50,000,000 national youth program.

Hopson Again Before Probers

House Rules Committee Continues Interrogation Of Utilities Leader

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—In an almost comic opera setting, rival congressional committees, "mad" at each other, continued their investigation today of the big utility lobby which was instrumental in defeating the administration's anti-holding company legislation.

Howard C. Hopson, so-called "master mind" of the Associated Gas & Electric set-up, which admittedly spent close to a million dollars in fighting the bill, was again before the house rules committee. The house committee found Hopson while agents for Senator Black's investigating committee were searching for him.

On the senate side, Black's committee had Hopson's attorney, William C. Hill of Boston, on the grill as the reasons for Hopson's evasion of the senate's agents. House officers yesterday prevented the Black committee's agents from serving a subpoena on the portly utility magnate, leading Black to conduct an investigation of the house committee's action.

SMUGGLING HIT SEVERE BLOWS

Alcohol, Dope And Alien Smuggling Rackets Are Being Broken Up

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Break-up of the illicit alcohol, alien and dope smuggling rackets was officially confirmed by the treasury department today in a detailed report of seizures and other enforcement activities of six secret service agents operating under the treasury.

This report showed:

Dispersal of a fleet of 78 foreign vessels hovering off the American coasts with contraband alcohol;

Break-up of dope-smuggling on the Pacific coast from the Orient;

Damming a flow of smuggled alcohol from foreign sources that in four months of 1934 was sufficient to produce approximately 2,000,000 gallons of bootleg liquor;

Closing of virtually all foreign ports in this hemisphere as smuggling bases.

"Planes and vessels of the coast guard and a shore patrol made up from coast guard, customs and alcohol tax unit forces operated to prevent direct landings from foreign vessels and to intercept shipments transferred outside the 12-mile limit to shore vessels," the treasury reported.

Army Units Will Leave Mt. Gretna

Two Regular Army Units Will Go Back To Virginia, Results Of Epidemic Appeal

(International News Service)

MT. GRETNA, Pa., Aug. 14.—Two regular army units were to leave the military reservation at Indiantown Gap today and return to their home stations in Virginia because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis in that state.

The war department ordered the regulars to decamp upon the request of Gov. George H. Earle. As a precautionary measure, Secretary of Health Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter last week banned national guard units from Virginia and the District of Columbia from participating in the military maneuvers to be started at Indiantown Gap and Mt. Gretna next week to prevent spread of the disease into Pennsylvania.

The units leaving today are the first battalion, Sixteenth Field Artillery, Fort Meyer, Va., and the Thirteen Engineers, Fort Belvoir, Va.

Briton Fears For Navy's Base Near Italy In Crisis

Malta's Ex-Premier Wants Key To Mediteranean Control Strengthened

By NEWELL ROGERS
International News Service Correspondent

LONDON, August 14.—With one eye on possible trouble with Italy over that country's ambitions to conquer Ethiopia, Great Britain has suddenly awakened to the importance of that football at the toe of Italy's boot—Malta and England's great naval base there.

A glance at the map shows how the Italian peninsula forms a boot pointing directly at the little isle of Malta, only about 50 miles from the coast of Sicily.

From this strategic point, Britain is in position to launch a sudden drop-kick, if need arose, at the heart of Italy, in the form of air bombing fleets.

On the other hand, the football lies in a fine position for a terrific kick from the Italian boot—Italian planes could easily rain bombs on the harbor at Valetta, bringing ruin to the great docks, arsenals and basins of the British Mediterranean fleet.

Such a disaster might end British naval domination in the Mediterranean and drive the British back to the heights of Gibraltar.

While hostilities between Italy and Britain must be regarded as a remote eventually, London observers nevertheless pointed to the sudden return to England of Lord Strickland, former prime minister of Malta, and the announcement he made as highly significant—in view of present strained relations over Ethiopia. He said he was immediately introducing a bill in Parliament to establish a great new air base in Malta.

Lord Strickland said:

"It is essential to imperial trade and the defence thereof, that Malta be made in good time the most important flying base in Europe.

"This project was smiled at when first proposed, but now it has attained rapid and weighty support by highly placed experts who can see into the future.

"An air base at Malta would be of paramount utility in peace as in war."

Lord Strickland pointed out that it would cost only $12,000,000 to add two square miles to the anchorages at Malta.

Such an extension, he said, would provide a necessary link to make Britain's potent war base in the Far East, Singapore, useful in practice.

Miss Perkins' Plea In Strike Rejected

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 14.—Employes of the New York Shipbuilding company, who have been on strike since last May, today had rejected a joint proposition put forth by Secretary of Labor Perkins and acting secretary of the navy Roosevelt, urging them to return to work pending settlement of their differences with the company.

The proposition was rejected at a mass meeting of the strikers in Convention hall last night. The strikers, who numbered about 2,300, booed every time the name of either Miss Perkins or Secretary Roosevelt was mentioned.

Women of Biblical Ethiopia See First Warbirds

Contrary to popular impression, Ethiopians have some war planes of their own with which to fight Italians, and here some of the natives get first glimpses of these "magic carpets." American soldiers of fortune are being engaged by Ethiopia for its air force, and may fly these planes against Italians. (C.P.)

FIND TIME BOMB IN NEW YORK MOVIE PLACE LAST NIGHT

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Terror gripped the great White Way today following the finding of a time bomb in a motion picture theatre last night, two minutes before it was set to explode.

The infernal machine was discovered in the lounge of the Time Square theatre by a negro porter, who displayed remarkable presence of mind and immediately doused the bomb in a pail of water and disconnected its wiring.

Had the bomb exploded a large portion of the 400 spectators in the theatre at the time would have been killed or injured, police said. Discovery of the bomb followed the bombing of two theatres in the Columbus Circle area early yesterday.

It would help some if the government would say occasionally: "Now this will hurt a little."

Triangle Murder In New York City

Woman Under Arrest On Charge Of Killing Another Woman

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—What police described as another "triangle murder" shattered the suburban calm of the Bayside section of Queens today.

The victim was described as Virginia Seigh, 23.

Under arrest, as the alleged slayer, is Mrs. Etta Reisman, 42, wife of Arthur Reisman, operator of a chain of beauty shops, who employed Miss Seigh as a stenographer.

The murder occurred in the Reisman home in Bayside.

Detectives, who were summoned to the house immediately after the killing, told reporters Mrs. Reisman shot the girl through the head and chest because her husband had assigned her living quarters in their home.

THOUSAND VICTIMS IN FLOOD IN ITALY

Dam Is Broken; Large Area Hit

Flood Waters Sweep Over Number Of Villages Spreading Ruin

HUGE LOSSES TO CROPS REPORTED

(International News Service)

OVADA, PIEDMONT, Italy, Aug. 14.—Rescue workers struggling in a waste of mud and debris today estimated that the waters of three-mile Lake Orsiglieto, leaping through a broken dam, left more than one thousand dead or missing.

Night-long searches by torchlight uncovered nearly 600 bodies, police said. Nearly every one of the 700 inhabitants of Molare, the first village hit by the 15-foot torrent, has disappeared.

Ovada, although on higher ground, reported 250 persons missing, and cloudbursts between here and Genoa are feared to have taken many more lives.

Dam Breaks.

Fed by two swollen rivers until its walls could hold it no longer, Lake Orsiglieto smashed through a 600-foot dam, raging over an area of 50 square miles, crumbling houses where peasants huddled from the storm, sweeping away bridges and spreading destruction running high into the millions of dollars.

The disaster, one of the greatest of its kind in European history, hit Premier Benito Mussolini's Abyssinian war plans, for crop losses were heavy, and textile mills that had been working day and night producing uniforms and materials for the Abyssinian expedition were damaged.

Bridges Swept Away.

Four railway bridges have practically vanished and roads and tracks have been torn up. The power plant operated by the dam spillways was practically demolished with a loss of $2,500,000. Trees were pulled up by the roots and telegraph poles tilted at drunken angles. Everything movable was destroyed, and today the sandy muck is littered with the bodies of animals.

Officials said so many bodies had been carried away by the water that it would be many days before an accurate check of the dead could be made.

One hundred houses at Ovada, which has a population of 10,000, were crushed. Scores of visitors to the valley from Genoa, mostly women and children, were believed lost.

One Strike Subsides.
Mr. Hoover's Question.
Magic Island Found.
War, The Last Blood Drop.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

NEW YORK'S strike of union General Johnson and the WPA, "works progress administration," seems temporarily to have collapsed. Mr. Meany, New York labor leader, before leaving town for the week-end, said all union men would go out and stay out and non-union men would follow. The news is that the non-union men did not follow, and the union men went back to work.

Robert Moses, of the park department, who employes 25,000 workers on park projects, reports only 110 deserters.

FORMER PRESIDENT HOOVER, in New York, suggests to Republican friends that they ask President Roosevelt what he means to do about changing the Constitution: What he would change.

In Chicago Mr. Hoover said "It would be better for liberty to commit suicide in the open than be poisoned by indirection."

President Roosevelt has a way of not saying anything, when not interested; most annoying to Republicans.

The President, when Congress goes home, will start for the big exposition at San Diego. You should go there if you possibly can manage it, see the fair, the Pacific, old Mexico, next door to San Diego; all California and the Pacific Coast. Perfect highways, railroads, airplanes.

FOR TWO HUNDRED YEARS Eskimos have related legends about mysterious islands in the Arctic, rich in priceless furs and minerals. When Peter the Great heard of gold or platinum deposits, he would send his men to find them. As workers in his mines, he sent his political, and other criminals, chained to their wheelbarrows, until they died. What would modern labor say to that?

STALIN'S RUSSIA, earnestly developing gold deposits, now produces more than three times as much gold as the United States, and Moscow announces that a Russian airman, flying where other seekers went slowly in dog sleds, has located the mysterious "Andreyev land." Russia's best pilot, Vassili Molekov, will fly to claim the island for Russia. In the last hundred years various expeditions have tried and failed to find these lands. An American, Delong, attempting the discovery, starved to death on an ice floe.

War talk continues. Mussolini announces a new air weapon "overwhelmingly powerful," but does not say what it is. Plain TNT and poison gas are powerful enough.

Hitler, announcing that his country is "ready to meet any outside peril," adds: "No power on earth can attack us." That seems a little over-confident. Two quotations are recommended to him, one French: "Nul ne peut se dire heureux avant son diernier jour." "No man can call himself happy until his last day." The other German: "Dich kann me in mund nicht glucklich sprechen, so lang des fiendes au ge wacht," literally translated, "My mouth cannot pronounce you happy as long as the enemy's eye wakes."

A prosaic financial telegram suggests that the public debt of Germany has been increased by twenty thousand million marks. That might represent an interior enemy of considerable proportions.

THE ETHIOPIAN EMPEROR, "direct descendant of King Solomon," seems to inherit his ancestor's wisdom, warns his people not to depend on the League of Nations, but prepare to "shed their last drop of blood." He promises to lead them in person against 'the devilish invaders."

"Devilish" is not too strong a word, as the wild tribes of Ethiopia will realize, when they compare poison gas with tse-tse flies, wild lions, and civet cats.

There is no doubt of the courage of Ethiopia's emperer, or the 600,000 men whom he has ready for war. The difficulty is that they will be on the ground whereas Mussolini will come through the air.

JAPAN'S ACTION is swift; sometimes to us westerners, it might seem brutal. A group of young men disapproved of a high Japanese official, murdered him, and thousands of sympathizers demanded that they be pardoned.

In Tokio, yesterday, Major General Nagata, chief of the Japanese Bureau of Military Affairs, was murdered, with a sword of Lieut. Colonel Iazewa. Why, is not known. Major General Nagata, important Japanese war official who announced that Japan would not look on with indifference if Italy went into Ethiopia, was promoted from Major General to Lieutenant General immediately after his murder. Japanese officers are always promoted, when killed in performance of duty.

In China, to confer great honor, a man is not only made noble himself, but his great, great grandfather and all his nearer ancestors are ennobled, in order to give him a fine ancestral tree.

LOVELY WOMAN, led by Paris fashion designers, is still trying to find out what she really wants. Universal Service dispatches from Paris describe "dresses as transparent as lace curtains from the knee down; skin-tight evening gowns with cut-out designs as big as elm leaves from under the arms to the hip-line. Cape coats of white fur, slit open on both sides." One gown is made entirely of "plaited gold braid."

When women settle down finally to some one style, as men have done with their two-legged trousers and plain coats, what do you think they will select?

STOCKS ARE BETTER, prices higher, in London and in Wall Street. The London Daily Mail says, "A stock exchange boom seems to do more for world trade than anything. The reason is that it gives confidence everywhere."

Strange and powerful is "confidence;" you cannot see it, feel it, weigh it, but you can easily destroy it.

A SOCIETY formed in Wurtenberg, "to combat lies, hatreds and strife," is suppressed by Nazi leaders as "superfluous," reminding you of a devout Mohammedan caliph, who ordered the destruction of a magnificent library, saying that if it contained what was in the koran, it was not necessary, and if it contained statements NOT in the koran, it was undesirable.

TO HAVE a thing well known, talk about it. If the Mikado's agents had not talked about a silly little cartoon published in this country, showing the respected emperor drawing a jinrikisha, the thing never would have been heard of. Now that it has been talked of the picture is reproduced in thousands of newspapers,all over the world.

China will not permit its publication in her newspapers. By sad experience, China knows what the Japanese military party can do when it starts, knows also that Japan is particularly sensitive about the Mikado.

Rainfall Records For Years Broken

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Aug. 14.—Rainfall records of more than a quarter of a century have been broken in Grove City during the past month, it is shown by a study of the figures kept at the college hall of science. Since July 22, the precipitation has measured 10.20 inches, which surpasses the existing record of 7.39, established only last August.

The average monthly precipitation for Grove City, covering 25 years, is only 3.89 inches. July of this year set a mark of 6.44 inches, and nearly three inches fell on August 2 and 3. Although there was no daily rainfall to match the all-time mark of 4.6 inches which occurred on August 9, 1934, there were few days between July 15 and August 12 that some rain did not fall.

The records show that April, usually supplying the heaviest rains of the year here, was the driest month of 1934, with only 1.59 inches.

Penny Causes Lot Of Trouble

Woman Loses Savings Of $5,000 And Husband Because Of Flattened Penny

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Two weeks ago Mrs. Mildred Auerbach, 35-year-old Brooklyn matron, had a husband, almost $5,000 in savings—and a one-cent piece.

Today her husband is gone, her savings have entirely disappeared, she is broken and ill—all due to the aforesaid one-cent piece.

And this is how it happened:—

On the day fated to start her chain of misfortunes, Mrs. Auerbach was arrested by a subway detective for dropping a one-cent piece, flattened and enlarged to the diameter of a nickel, into a subway turnstile.

Husband Disappears

More than $700 was discovered on her person, and bank books showing deposits of nearly $5,000. Her case was adjourned until yesterday, but in the interim, the penny piece had done its evil work.

Her husband, a reputed mental invalid, learned of the matter, and heard for the first time of his wife's nest egg as a result of her arrest and a few days later withdrew all but $1,000 of the money from the bank, and disappeared.

Publicity attendant upon the case brought the discovery by federal agents that the Auerbachs had been receiving a pension from the U. S. Veterans' Bureau for two years. They forced the woman to repay the money, and amount approximately $1,200.

The final link in the chain of bad luck, and a minor one, was forged yesterday when Mrs. Auerbach was fined $10 on the subway fraud charge.

Friends had to carry the woman, fainting and ill, from the courtroom.

War Veterans At Wilkes-Barre

State Legion Convention Is Being Opened In Eastern City

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 14.—The soldiers' bonus and deportation of aliens were two subjects on many lips here today as this flag-bedecked city became the mecca for Pennsylvania's war veterans who are streaming in from all parts of the state for the 17th annual state American Legion convention.

Registration of delegates started this morning although the convention does not officially get underway until tomorrow. Advance sessions of the Forty and Eight today, however, attracted many.

The concensus around the registration desk was that the convention would go on record in favor of immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus. A resolution to that effect is certain to reach the floor. Also anticipated is a favorable vote on expected resolution calling for deportation of all aliens to make jobs for Americans.

A parade by the Forty and Eight tonight is expected to mark the "touch-off" for the week's activities. Tomorrow's Legion sessions will open with a memorial service for James J. Deighan, state adjutant for 13 years, who died last June.

Business sessions will follow, ending with election of officers Saturday during a closing session at which Gov. George H. Earle and U. S. Senator James J. Davis are scheduled to speak. The convention will officially end with the mammoth parade Saturday afternoon through the streets of Wilkes-Barre. More than 25,000 are expected to be in the line of march. Two hundred musical organizations, mostly flashily-dressed drum and bugle corps, will complete for prizes Friday night.

CITY HALL OFFICES CLOSE AT NOON

All offices in the city building today were closed at noon on account of Old Timers day. Most of the clerks and other employes who were given the afternoon off signified their intention of attending the Old Timers outing at Cascade park.

Mrs. Earle And Son Will Spend Month In Europe

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Mrs. George H. Earle, wife of the governor, revealed today that she and her eldest son, George, 18, will leave Saturday for a month's trip to Europe.

The trip was planned as a reward for George's success in passing the entrance examinations to Harvard, alma mater of his father and grandfather. They will visit Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, a friend of the family and recently appointed U. S. minister to Norway.

Corporations Must Pay Water Rights

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—Public service corporations must pay for the privilege of crossing the stream beds of Pennsylvania waters, Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti advised the water and power resources board today.

The ruling, requested by Thomas C. Buchanan, secretary of forests and waters and chairman of the board, applies either to submerged pipe lines in the river bed or to electric overhead lines.

"That the commonwealth may require permission to be secured with conditions to be met before its property may be occupied and used by private parties for their own profit cannot be doubted," Margiotti held.

Other local fighters will be seen in action, including Paul Kraynak, Mike Kraynak and Ray Atkinson.

The card for the occasion is as follows:

Jimmy Clarke, 147 pounds, world's A. A. U. welterweight champion, of Jamestown, N. Y., vs. George Rocco of Ellwood City.

Steve Kabeda, 150-pound Golden Glove champion, of Pittsburgh, vs. Mike Kraynk, Ellwood City.

George Raffa, East Liverpool, O., vs. Earl Cavanaugh, Pittsburgh, at 126 pounds.

Ray Atkinson, Ellwood City, Beaver Valley Golden Glove champion, vs. Joe Gedil of Pittsburgh, at 147 pounds.

Paul Kraynak, Ellwood City, vs. Dave Jakes, Midland, Pa., New Jersey state champion.

Rudy VanKovich, Monaca, vs. Mike Slevensky, Ambridge, at 135 pounds.

Teddy Blazack, Beaver Falls, vs. Mickey Shuman, Ambridge, at 128 pounds.

Rough Outline Of Constitution Will Be Made

Governor's Committee Decides To Have Tentative Outline Hastened

TO BE PREPARED BEFORE PRIMARY

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—A rough outline of what Gov. George H. Earle's constitutional revision advisory committee thinks should be in any new Pennsylvania basic law will be available for voters before they ballot September 17 on whether to revise the 61-year-old constitution.

This was decided today as the committee of 75 went to work in an effort to whip a tentative draft of a new constitution into shape within four weeks, after organizing here yesterday and recessing until summoned back into session.

To Make Tentative Draft

The decision to have a tentative draft of a new constitution ready before the primary election next month was made by the committee after a lengthy decision by the fifty committee members present. Governor Earle ended the debate when he suggested:

"If we want revision, the people must have a brief, general synopsis of what this representative body of men and women think is fair play for the people before them when they decide."

A committee on committees, headed by former Attorney General William A. Schnader, unsuccessful candidate for governor last year, was to take the first step in setting up the necessary machinery for assembling a new fundamental document before September 17. Various sub-committees will be named within a few days, each to take one phase of the constitution for revision.

Voters To Decide

Voters will decide at the primary whether they want a formal constitutional convention summoned to meet in December. If they do, 70 delegates will be elected in November. Their completed new constitution probably would be submitted to the people for ratification at the 1936 primaries.

As the advisory committee went to work it had before it the four major objectives Governor Earle would like to see made possible under a constitution. They were:

1—Social security.

2—Modern methods of government financing.

3—Scientific taxation based on ability to pay.

4—Reorganization of state and local government in the interest of economy and efficiency.

The executive, in outlining his four proposals, asserted that his first objective, social security, is "the greatest need that exists today." He criticized the Republican senate for limiting the state's borrowing power under any new constiution to $50,000,000 and told the committee the limitation would "handicap" its work. Details of how to phrase constitutional sections to permit legislation to make defective that and his other points, he left to the committee with the words:

"Your function will be to prepare a suggested draft of a new constitution, based upon sound principles of representative government and broad enough in its scope to meet the needs of our changing times."

Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti was elected permanent chairman of the committee by acclamation. Schnader was selected as vice-chairman and William Draper Lewis was named secretary, the same post he held on the Sproul constitutional revision committee in 1920.

Britain Will Have Big Navy

Evident Nation Intends To Have Navy Second To None

SEVEN-YEAR NAVAL PLAN IS SENSATION

By NEWELL ROGERS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 14.—With statements and denials flying back and forth here about the new navy Britain will build when the present seapower limitation treaties lapse, one clear fact emerged today:

King George's empire intends to have a navy second to none.

Surrendering as gracefully as possible before immovable Japanese objections to continuing limitations under a system of ratios, the British are now negotiating with the principal powers for an exchange of building programs beyond which the powers concerned would agree not to build.

Thus, the United States would agree to lay down only five battleships in a stated time, Britain would agree to build only five and Japan five.

Not Binding.

But even if such naval programs are declared in advance, they will not be binding on the powers, Lord Londonderry, the cabinet's spokesman in the House of Lords, now reveals.

Any power changing its mind about its navy's needs would promise to give a year's notice to the other countries, he stated.

Chief initial difficulty about this system is that no government wants to declare what it is going to do until it learns what the other nations will build.

So a sensation was caused when what purports to be the British seven-year naval plan was published, and the cost of the vast armada therein outlined put at approximately $750,000,000.

According to this program, Britain plans to build 12 new battleships between 1936 and 1942, 33 cruisers, 60 flotilla leaders and destroyers, 21 submarines and three aircraft carriers.

Five battleships would be built in 1937, three in 1938 and one each year thereafter. In default of any international agreemnt, the British will build 35,000-ton battleships carrying 13.5 inch guns and capable of 32 knots an hour, under this plan.

Louis Tevell Dies In Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14—Louis Tevell, 40, secretary of the state public service commission, died in Graduate hospital here today following an operation for a spinal tumor.

The end came after he failed to rally from the operation despite a blood transfusion given by his uncle, Harry Lieberman, of Philadelphia. At his bedside when he succumbed were Lieberman, his wife, Mrs. Elsie Tevell and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Isis Stevenson, of Harrisburg.

Employed by the commission for 18 years, beginning as a court reporter, Tevell had been ill for the last several months. He was rushed here last Saturday when his condition became aggravated.

John G. Hopwood, 52, his predecessor on the commission, died in New York last Monday.

She'd Take Tots From Mothers

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 14. — Mother doesn't know best, in the opinion of Lady Nancy Astor, Virginia-born member of the House of Commons.

She told a conference of teachers at Lincoln that every child should be placed in a nursery school.

"Take a child from a nursery school and a child from a dear, protecting mother's side," she said, "and you will find that the child from the school has all the things a mother longs to give her child and can't."

Johnson Explains Oath And Bonds For Persons On Relief

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14—The act of assembly requiring persons on relief to make affidavits and sign personal bonds is no more than "usual procedure" required of every person doing business with the state or federal government, Robert L. Johnson, state relief administrator, said today.

"I know of no business that is conducted with any state or federal government which does not require an oath" Johnson said in explaining the act's provisions. "Under no circumstances can I see why the applicant for relief should resent being required to swear to the application, nor can I understand why he should resent signing a bond. If the applicant is honest, the bond will not be invoked."

Burial Plot Is Being Provided For "Wrong Man"

Palmer's father refused the body, claiming it was not that of his son. O Donneil was killed two weeks ago by an automobile at Toledo, O., and Palmer's army discharge papers were found in his clothing.

Child Spends 19 Hours At Piano

(International News Service)

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 14.—A living refutation of the common belief that most children must be forced to practice on the piano is little Miss Catherine Stayton, 13, who establishes at least a local record with her self-imposed schedule of 19 hours daily at the piano.

Catherine explains that she is going to become a concert pianist.

She sleeps four hours. She plays none whatever—that is, outdoors. She has followed an identical schedule for the past two years, and has memorized 600 classical selections.

Her work is broken only by three intervals of 15 minutes each, during which she takes her meals while a member of her family reads history to her.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Stayton, insist it is the child's own idea.

Democrats Rush Congress Bills For Adjournment

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Senate Democratic leaders formed the spearhead in a mass rush toward adjournment today, confident they can carry the new tax bill along to enactment.

Majority Leader Senator Robinson of Arkansas sounded the note in so many words:

"As soon as the new tax bill conference report is adopted we will sound the gong for adjournment."

This decision simultaneously sounded the death knell for much pending legislation, including ship subsidy, probably the Guffey coal bill and the utility holding company bill.

Measures described as "standard" by Robinson included the TVA conference report, the AAA amendments and the new banking legislation. The Democratic leader believes all three now in conference can be enacted.

Robinson and the chairman of the Senate finance committee in charge of the tax bill, Senator Harrison (D) of Mississippi, agreed to call the Senate into session later in the week in the interests of speed. Increasingly bright prospects for fast action on the tax bill brought them to the decision that they will ask night sessions only in the event of a filibuster. Some senators indicated this idea was agreed particularly to block any delay by the Louisiana kingfish, Senator Huey P. Long.

Communists To Fight Fascism

Will Act In Concert With "Burgeois Democracy" Throughout World

By LINDESAY PARROTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, Aug. 14.—Although the communist party has decided to act in concert wtih "bourgeois democracy" throughout the world and particularly in the United States to combat "the menace of Fascism", the reds eventually will desert democracy as only a temporary ally.

This was made plain today by Georgi Dmitroff, Bulgarian communist who figured in the famous Reichstag fire trial in Germany and who now is a leading patry organizer in Russia, in an expository address before the congress of the Communist International.

Dmitroff explained the communist party wished the alliance, under which all workers would be joined by the reds to fight under assorted banners, only to combat Fascism, and he strongly indicated the alliance will be ended when "the Fascist danger to communism is removed."

"It must be remembered," Dmitroff declared, "that our relations with bourgeois democracy will not remain static among changing conditions.

"We fought bourgeois democracy during the Russian revolution because it became a counter-revolutionary force against a dictatorship of the proletariat.

"Now, however, the Fascists are attacking bourgeois democracy and are trying to establish a regime of exploitation and terror. Workers must choose not between a dictatorship of the proletariat and bourgeois democracy, but between bourgeois democracy and Fascism."

City May Employ Radio Technician

Civil Service Test To Be Held Here In September

Attorney Ralph Cooper, secretary to the civil service board for police, stated today he had received a request to have the board conduct an examination of candidates for the police force. The secretary also said another request was made that the civil service commission for electricians hold an examination of candidates who wish to become radio technician in the department of police. He said the examinations probably would be held September 3.

Sentenced For Barn Burning

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 14.—Carl Leonard, 22, formerly of Donora, today was under sentence to serve from two and a half to five years in the Western Penitentiary for setting fire to a brick barn on the farm of Rev. F. C. Depew in revenge for fancied mistreatment at the hands of the priest.

Rev. Depew testified he made deductions from Leonard's pay for articles stolen from the farm. He charged the youth stole carbolic acid and threatened to disfigure a girl who spurned his advances, and that search of the farmhand's quarters revealed a cache of 10 sticks of dynamite.

The barn burned, with a loss of $2,500, and four horses perished in the fire. Four youths admitted they trampled down the priest's cornfield at Leonard's urging.

Mayor McCloskey Firm In Stand

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 14.—Mayor Eddie McCloskey today stood firm in his refusal to approve permits for dancing and entertainment at local beer parlors because he believes "booths and booze don't mix."

Under the new beer law, the mayor must approve the permits before they can be issued by the state liquor control board.

McCloskey wrote Clyde E. Smith, chief of licensing, that young people were lured into beer parlors by the opportunity to dance and asserted he would withhold approval of the permits until the booths were dismantled and the establishments properly lighted.

Controversy Over Hopson

House And Senate Committees At Odds Over Utility Witness

SEE RIVALRY OF PROBING BODIES

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—House Rules Committee Chairman John O'Connor, New York, today bitterly criticized the efforts of the Senate lobby investigators for trying to encroach on his utility inquiry while Howard C. Hopson, head of the Associated Gas and Electric System, waited in the witness chair. O'Connor delivered a scorching arraignment of his Senate rivals.

His statement was precipitated by Rep. Cox (D) of Georgia, who denounced published reports that the House committee had aided Hopson in dodging a Senate subpoena after he had concluded his testimony yesterday.

"This committee has no special claim to this witness," Cox asserted.

"If the witness does not voluntarily appear before the other committee his person should be delivered there."

Flaring up, O'Connor said the Senate group headed by Senator Black (D)of Alabama had employed "40 or 50 G-men" in an unsuccessful effort to subpoena Hopson.

"We sent out our own agents and subpoenaed the witness in the interest of Congress."

O'Connor said the special Senate committee had been established long after the House committee and accused his rivals of "following every move we made".

"When we announced our intention to subpoena records of a power representative, the other committee slipped in," he said.

"When we intended to subpoena Hopson the other committee slipped in."

Cox said he does "not recognize there is rivalry between this committee and another committee".

O'Connor countered that his committee was trying to get the facts on lobbying "without old stuff and without ballyhoo".

He intimated the Senate had produced information in its lobby investigation which was made public years ago.

Methodists Wil Study Plans For Gigantic Merger

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—A joint commission of the three branches of American Methodism will meet today to consider plans to end their 94-year-old schism and reunite to form the largest Protestant church in this country with approximately 7,000,000 communicants.

Preliminary meetings were held yesterday by leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church (South), Methodist Episcopal church, Northern, and the Methodist Protestant church, which split almost a century ago over slavery and church administration differences.

Plans to include the Presbyterian church in the merger were also discussed, it was learned.

Charged With Dope Violation

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 14—Two men were under arrest today following the discovery of a patch of marijuana weed growing on a farm at nearby Langeloth.

Both men, Emil Bango, 41 and Frank Fernandez, 31, Spaniards, were taken into custody at the farm on charges of violating the state narcotics act. The two were said to have been on the relief rolls.

Arrest of the pair climaxed efforts of investigators to locate the "dope farm" whose existence had been reported some time ago. Value of the weed was estimated by authorities at $2,000.

Discuss Auto Inspection Law

Committees From Garagemen And Dealers Named To Adopt Uniform Price

REGULATIONS ARE REVIEWED

Following a general discussion of the provisions of the new regulations pertaining to automobile inspection in Pennsylvania, a committee representing the automobile dealers and independent garage men was named to arrived at a uniform price which will be charged for this service.

According to the regulations, as promulgated for the inspection, the inspector must remove the rear wheels, remove the lens from the lights, and take out each bulb. In older cars, this sometimes is a difficult job. If any of these parts are broken, the inspector would be held responsible, it was stated, and the task of completing an inspection as laid down under the law, could not profitably be done at the old price.

The meeting held last evening between the garage men and auto dealers took place in the office of J. R. Rick, and the various provisions were thoroughly discussed.

The committee which is meeting at a luncheon in the Elks Club today, to adopt a uniform price, is composed of J. W. Barnes, T. E. Chambers, Tom O'Neill, J. R. Rick, Henry Rodgers, Aaron Blews, and Sherman E. Weaver.

To Ask New Bids For Big State Loan

Sinking Fund Provision To Be Provided In Taking New Bids

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14—Undismayed by its failure to obtain bids on the issue, the commonwealth today planned to offer for sale again next week its $50,000,000 worth of tax anticipation notes to supply funds to balance the 1935-37 biennium's inverted budget.

Tentative plans called for re-advertising the issue on Friday and calling for bids next Tuesday noon. There were indications the new offer would be accepted by banking syndicates and that the issue would be sold.

The new offer will contain a sinking fund provision which bankers demanded yesterday in submitting bids for only $14,000,000 worth of the total issue. All 14 individual bids were rejected. Failure to agree on the method of payment into a sinking fund resulted in no provision being made for such a fund in the original offer, it was learned.

Treasury officials were quick to assert that the failure of the state to receive bids for the full issue would not work a hardship on the general fund if the renewed offer is accepted as expected. The money obtained from the tax notes, they said, will be used to pay overdue school and hospital subsidies and to repay $23,000,000 borrowed from special funds during the last two years for relief and old age pensions. The remainder of the money will finance old age and blind pensions for the rest of the current fiscal year.

Italian Day Here Thursday

Italian-American Residents To Celebrate Thirty-Eighth Annual Event

EVENT TAKES PLACE AT CASCADE PARK

On Thursday at Cascade park several thousand Italian-American residents of Lawrence county will assemble for their 38th annual Italian Day celebration.

Special services in the St. Vitus church, corner of South Jefferson and Maitland street, at 6, 7:15, 8:30 and high mass at 10 o'clock will mark the opening of the occasion. The event is being held in conjunction with the feast of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary, which also occurs tomorrow.

Following a parade in which every Italian organization in the city will participate, the throng will journey to Cascade to enjoy a program of sports and many other features. General Chairman B. J. Biondi stated today that the order of the parade will be: South Jefferson to East Home, up to Moravia street to Long avenue, from Long avenue up to South Mill street. After marching through the downtown district, the parade will disband in front of the church.

A large sports program will be conducted at 4:30 o'clock. A mushball game, Unions versus Italian All Stars, at Cascade field will be played during the afternoon.

Noted Speakers.

General Chairman Biondi has arranged a most interesting program for 7:30 o'clock at the bandstand. Following a concert by the Red Coat band, the gathering will listen to addresses by Judge of Circuit Court Michael A. Musmanno of Pittsburgh. District Italian Representative Vice Consul Cavalier Calabro of Pittsburg and Professor Domenic Russo, also of Pittsburgh, will complete the speakers program.

At 10 o'clock, $100 will be awarded. The celebration will come to a climax with one of the largest fireworks displays of the year at Cascade park, scheduled for 11 o'clock.

Chairman Biondi announced today that everything is in readiness for the event. With a break from the weatherman, Cascade is anticipated to be the scene of one of the biggest crowds of the current season. The Rev. Fr. Nicholas DeMita, pastor of the St. Vitus church, is sponsoring the celebration.

The book: "Carson the Statesman."

By: Ian D. Colvin.

Nutshell review: Covers four years, 1910-1914, in the life of the Irish statesman and lawyer, during which time he with the help of the House of Lords and the Unionist party, wrecked the third Home Rule bill. It is not only interesting but is a little masterpiece of legal history concerning some of the most famous cases tried in English courts in which Carson appeared as counsel.

Crime Wave Is Sweeping Japan

(International News Service)

TOKIO, Aug. 14.—Criminal offenses have more than doubled in Japan in seven years, it is shown by police statistics quoted in the Tokio Asahi.

The total of 700,000 such offenses in 1926 had risen to 1,600,000 by 1934. Despite the general increase, some classes of crime, including murder, have remained stationary. There has been no appreciable increase in the number of murders in the last ten years.

But during the eight years since 1926 thefts have more than doubled and frauds and blackmail offenses almost trebled.

FATALLY INJURED IN TRUCK CRASH

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 14.—Hamilton Burnett, 49, of Orangeville, near here, was fatally injured Tuesday when he was struck by a truck driven by Lewis Epps, Ashtabula, O., while walking along the Five Points road. Epps was released on his own recognizance after he was questioned by officers.

Betelgeuse, the bright, red slightly variable star in the right shoulder of the constellation, by spectroscopic examination, has a surface temperature of about 3,000 degrees.

CANAL BOOSTERS ARE STILL WORKING

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 14.—George Mahaney, president of the Shenango Valley Canal committee, Tuesday advised local canal boosters to support the proposed Beaver-Mahoning-Grand river route for the Ohio River-Lake Erie canal favored by United States army engineers.

Mahaney and Mayor Joseph A. Franek of Farrell, returned Monday night from Pittsburgh, where they interviewed army officers regarding plans for the river-to-lakes waterway. If the Mahoning route is chosen, they were told Shenango valley industries in time may get a spur which would provide water transportation for their products.

Anyway, living from hand to mouth is good exercise for the arms.

ARE YOU A SAFE DRIVER?

... ask yourself these questions

1. Which requires greater caution — a curve to the right or a curve to the left — and why?
2. What is the safest way to handle your car on a highway curve — when do you use the brakes — when do you throw out the clutch — when do you accelerate?
3. In rounding a curve at high speed, is it safer to hold the steering wheel steady or "jiggle" it?
4. In passing another car on the road, is it safer to make a short, quick swing around, or a longer, more gradual one—and why?
5. On a slippery or icy road, your rear wheels suddenly start skidding. What is the way to bring the car out of the skid?
6. When is it safe to pass another car on a hill?

Even the most experienced drivers seldom know the correct answers to these questions. And there are several additional safety questions that every driver should be able to answer. Get them all, and get the right answers, from the nearest Hudson and Terraplane dealer. Come in today.

Mussolini Has Plan For Africa

Will Make Offer To Great Britain In East Africa

NO CESSATION OF MILITARY PLANS

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1935, By International News Service)

ROME, Aug. 14.—Turning the diplomatic tables, Italy has devised a plan of her own which she will offer Great Britain in return for the right of way in East Africa, International News Service learned as Premier Benito Mussolini gave final instructions to his delegates to the important three-power conference in Paris.

The first authoritative summary of Premier Mussolini's views regarding this week's Paris parley was given exclusively to this correspondent today. It revealed Il Duce views the Paris talks with great skepticism, and that he regards his military preparations as far more important than the diplomatic conversations called to halt them.

The offer to Britain—and whether Britain takes it or leaves it will not matter in Il Duce's military plans—is that Italy is ready and willing, in case of the "complete" solution of the Abyssinian problem, to give Britain a guarantee which she has tried unsuccessfully to get from Abyssinia for more than 30 years.

Italy's Offer

This is that the water of Lake Tsana, at the headquarters of the Nile, will not be diverted from the river and thus form the fertile valleys below, where it is necessary to the raising of crops in Egypt.

Italy will have this offer ready, and whether it is accepted or not, it will represent the only diplomatic concession Italy can make. According to Premier Mussolini's view, the only achievement possible at Paris would be acceptance of this proposition.

Otherwise Il Duce's view remains unchanged and will remain so despite any "dilatory" negotiations which may be held to alter it. This view is that Italy has to settle "vital" questions with Abyssinia, and that only a "complete" settlement will satisfy Rome.

Italy has under the colors 900,000 men, of which more than 200,000 soon will be in East Africa with the most powerful armaments any expeditionary force ever had in Africa.

Aside from this realistic state of affairs, there are the less certain diplomatic conversations with Britain and France which Italy evidently feels are of far less importance.

Italy would gladly reach a harmonious solution between the two sides of the question as she sees them—the military and the diplomatic—but only unless such a solution would mean there would be no slackening of the military mission.

Otherwise, Premier Mussolini has told his delegates, Britain and France must realize that conditions have altered since 1906, and an entirely new situation has arisen.

This remains Il Duce's firm contention, despite the fact the Paris talks were called on the basis of that treaty, which provided for economic spheres of influence in Abyssinia to be governed by Britain, France and Italy, but which provided Abyssinia's integrity must not be disturbed.

'Windjammer' Is Sailing To Doom

(International News Service)

ALAMEDA, Calif., Aug. 14—Under ful canvas, the veteran "windjammer" Star of Zealand will soon set sail across the Pacific on a voyage of doom.

The vessel, once the pride of the Alaska Packing Company's fleet of 21 sailing ships, will carry a cargo of scrap iron to Osaka, Japan, a voyage of 6,000 miles that will require two months, and she will then be broken up for metal.

The Star of Zealand is the last of the packers' fleet. She was commissioned at Bath, Maine, in 1901 and placed in the Pacific oil trade.

On her last voyage she will be commanded by Captain Charles A. Watts, who has seen 50 years' service before the mast.

Seek 125,000 Names For Legion Tribute

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—A testimonial consisting of 10 volumes containing 125,000 signatures is planned for presentation to Frank N. Belgrano, national commander of the American Legion, at its national convention in St. Louis in September.

The impressive tribute was undertaken by Col H. A. Weidenfeld of Salem, Ore., and H. Atkinson, a fellow Oregon legionnaire, who are collecting the signatures on a 20,000-mile motor tour. They plan to visit every state capital and every Legion state department headquarters, winding up at the convention in St. Louis.

Each volume will contain 12,500 signatures and will be imprinted with the Legion emblem. All will be bound in a mahogany presentation case.

Three Miners Are Taken Before Squire

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Aug. 14.—Three miners of Springfield township were charged with assault and battery, as the result of two fights over the week-end. All the participants live near No. 5 Mine, south of town.

Two brothers, Adam and Tom Bell, waived a hearing when arraigned before Squire A. W. Madge here last evening. Harry Arklay claimed they attacked him while at work.

Another miner, Albert Dobeo, was fined $10 and costs and bonded to keep the peace for one year, as the result of a battle he put up with his landlord against eviction proceedings. The case was heard by Squire Munnell of Springfield township.

ASHTABULA, O.—John Houser, Ashtabula township farmer, is selling 17 strawberries as a quart. The 17 berries fill a quart measure to overflowing and are reminders that the county is producing one of the largest and best crops in history, a direct contrast to last year when the drought killed all patches except those irrigated.

Fifty-Nine Pass Operator's Test

Ninety Prospective Drivers Take Tests On Sampson Street Tuesday

RECORD NUMBER FOR ENTIRE YEAR

Three state highway patrolmen were kept busy as Trojans from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m. in Sampson street examining prospective operators of motor cars and when the list of applicants for licenses had been finished the day's work showed that 90 had been examined, which is quite a task for three examiners. Of the 90, fifty-nine won the right to operate an auto and the remaining 31 failed to secure their licenses to drive a car. However, providing their learners' permits have not yet expired they can take the test again August 20.

The tests yesterday proved the largest turn out this summer and showed conclusively that business is at such a peak that many persons can afford to take out licenses. However, the highest number of the present year has not yet matched that of 1934, when according to recollections of an observer, 97 persons took examinations on one day.

The drivers showed their learner's permit, the registration card for the vehicle and had to read the chart which in itself is a lesson to autoists. Following this, they were tested for color blindness. The patrolmen then examined the car to see if the windshield and the lights were satisfactory then went for a ride with the applicant.

A ride of several hundred yards was followed by an order to turn around in the middle of Sampson street which tested forward and backward driving. After this had been finished the operator again drove his car on the return trip. Opposite the test station, near the Union brewery, the car was stopped and the driver was tested as to his knowledge of the auto laws.

Providing he was fully conversant with the questions and knew how to drive safely his learner's permit was marked "passed". However, in case of failure it was so marked and he was courteously invited to return for another examination.

On Court House Hill

County commissioners have named Saturday, August 17, at 1 p. m. as the date when candidates will draw for positions on the ballot. The drawing will be conducted at the county commissioners' office. Numbers will be placed in a hat and those candidates who are present can draw, or send some person to draw for them. In case a candidate or his proxy does not appear the commissioners will designate some person to draw for him.

Back of the tiers of ceils in the county jail are small passageways about two feet wide, which house steam, gas and other pipes. There are two of these passageways which are entered by small doors leading from the jail lobbies. Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard is engaged in cleaning from these passageways a lot of rubbish which has evidently been accumulating for many years. Two truck loads have already been hauled out, and there is more to follow. It is the intention of the sheriff to have the floors cemented in order that they may be kept clean in the future.

Will of the late James Leech Dutch, of Little Beaver township, has been probated at the register and recorder's office. He left his property to his wife, Hannah Marie Dutch. A son, George Dutch, was named as executor.

Under the will of the late Sadie Isaacs, of this city, all of decedent's property is left to her sons, Alexander and Anthony Isaacs, who are also named as executors.

Thirty-seven instruments of all kinds were recorded at the register and recorder's office during the past week. Of this number 24 were deeds and nine were mortgages. Two of the mortgages, one in Ellwood City and one in the Fifth Ward, this city, were given to the Home Owners Loan Corporation. It is expected that from now on there will be considerable activity in the Home Owners Loan mortgage line, as a number of titles are being examined under the new allotment of funds made here. Among the larger mortgages recorded was one given by the Wayne Lumber Company of Ellwood City to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for $30,000.

Prothonotary and Clerk of Court Ralph M. Campbell, is continuing to receive commendatory opinions on his action in refusing to grant marriage licenses to persons on relief. One of special interest was received today from S. D. Wicks, an officer of the Eugenics Research Association, Syracuse, N. Y. It says: "Your stand in the matter of applications for marriage licenses by persons on relief is excellent. Every one in your position in the country should do the same, and the government should prescribe regulations governing it.

"The idea is especially correct, not only for the benefit of the municipalities, in a saving on their relief money, but from the eugenical standpoint as well. Future generations will have a hard enough time of it without adding to their plight in the form of deficiency in physical advantages, because of the lack of food in their infancy; poor education and lack of education on the part of their parents because of bad home conditions.

"As one interested in eugenics and the future of humanity in this country as well as the world in general, I commend your idea to the highest authorities. We need more men like you in the country. As my friends, Walter B. Pitkin, says: 'More power to you.'"

In another letter received from Camden, N. J., the writer says. "If your action in refusing marriage licenses to persons on relief is true, you deserve a gold medal. It's worth the postage and time to let you know you are an exception. Mr. Campbell I'm sorry I cannot vote for you for some office. I'm proud of you. Keep the good work up. Again I say you deserve a gold medal."

ARYAN-JEW WEDLOCK BARRIER IN GERMANY

(International News Service)

BERLIN.—The action of the marriage registration bureau in Pforzheim in refusing a marriage license to a soldier in the reserve who wished to marry a Jewish girl, is expected to set a precedent that will bar all marriages between Jews and Gentiles of Germany in the future.

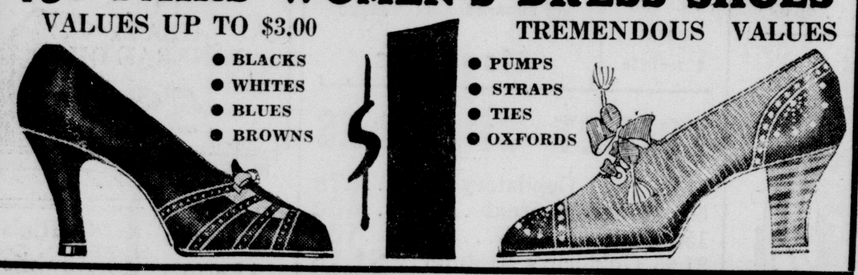

The license was declined on the grounds that the new army law prohibits the marriage of a soldier, whether on active service or in reserve, to a non-Aryan.

Since all Germans will shortly be on the reserve army lists until they are 45, this army law will virtually bar marriages between Jews and Aryans.

Moslem Princess Casts Off Cloak

Young Princess Rubie Salie Casts Off Moslem Customs To Become American

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 14.—The bitter religious strife of the middle ages had been re-fought here today, bringing victory to a beautiful 22-year-old Moslem princess, who won her way to the freedom of American Christianity and casting off her oriental restraint and defying the faith of her fathers.

The girl, Rubie Salie, object of an intensive 24-hour police search here yesterday, left with all her belongings aboard a train for Los Angeles, it was revealed today. She had been reported missing by her distraught father, Prince M. U. M. Salie, wealthy Ceylon, India, gem importer, here to show his wares in California Pacific international exposition.

Case Is Closed.

The case is closed on the police blotter—for the girl is of age and allowed in this country to go where she will.

Presiding over his $50.000 gem exhibit here is Prince Salie, heartbroken and lonely. He gave his daughter everything—money, home, clothes—and she ran away because he demanded of her what is paid willingly by the women of his homeland. He, a strict Mohammedan, forbade her to talk to anyone besides himself; refused to allow her to read books or magazines which were not Mohammedan; instead she work for him as Moslem women should.

But the girl is half English. Her mother, who died in Ceylon four months ago, was Elsie Goldborough of Melbourne, Australia, before her marriage to the oriental prince. And Princess Rubie, raised in the Christian beliefs of her mother, had been partially educated in this country. When her mother died, the princess joined her father in Florida and for four months lived under severe Moslem restraint.

According to neighbors and confidants of the girl, discovered by police here, she decided to flee the oriental influence more than two months ago.

Probe Death Of Chief Fitter On U. S. Submarine

Paul William Seigel, Of Roxborough, Pa., Dies From Attack Of "Bends"

(International News Service)

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 14.—A naval board of inquiry today launched an official investigation into the death of Paul William Seigel, 35, of Roxborough, Pa., chief ship's fitter of the United States submarine base, who died as a result of the "bends", suffered while diving in Block Island Sound from the U. S. S. "Falcon".

He died shortly after the arrival of an airplane from Washington containing four naval physicians, who had sought to save his life. The plane returned to Washington two hours later.

Details surrounding the case were withheld by officials at the base. Apparently Seigel had never regained consciousness after being placed in an oxygen tent at the base after he had gone 60 feet below the surface in diving tests.

Paul Revere And Guide Tower In New Controversy

Identity Of Old North Church Is Now Said To Be In Doubt

(International News Service)

BOSTON, August 14.—The Old North Chuch—or the Old North Meeting House?

After all these years, historians are still trying to decide whether the signal lanterns that supposedly started Paul Revere on his famous ride were hung from the steeple of the North Church or the North Meeting House.

Various histories state, and it is generally believed, that the lanterns were swung from the steeple of the Old North Church on Salem street. This has been pointed out to countless sightseeres as the signal tower. But now there are historians who point to evidence that Devens, who was Revere's assistant, hung the lanterns from the belfry tower of the North Meeting House.

Richard Frothingham, one of the country's first historians, is quoted as saying that the signal was a private one agreed on by Revere and Devens, the only two people concerned in the incident. These two named the North Church as the site of operations, but the church in North Square 'the North Meeting House) was near Revere's home and was the church he attended, whereas Christ Church had a pastor who was a royalist, as were nearly all of the parishioners. The North Church, moreover, has a belfry and not a steeple and so was best adapted to show the signal lights.

However, Robert Chase, noted Boston artist, has found a letter supposedly written by Paul Revere to his friend Rev. Belknap, which disproves Frothingham's evidence, "I agreed if the British went by water, we'd show two lanterns in the North Church steeple, and if by land, one as a signal."

Chase also pointed out that Revere as a bell maker, would know the difference between a steeple and a belfry, the former being high and closed all the way to the top, while the latter are low and open at the part where the bell hangs. He added that while Revere called the church the "Old North Church" in his letter, he meant Chirst Church, but used the word north as a directional adjective.

Drake in his "Old Landmarks of Boston," mentions that "Christ Church long dominated over the locality and served as a landmark for vessels entering the harbor."

Charles Ferris Gettemy, in his "True Story of Paul Revere," said that from the spot where Revere landed on the Charlestown shore, the steeple of Chirst Church was plainly visible. So partisans of Christ Church in the discussion argue logically enough that this was the point where the lanterns were displayed.

Many other early local historians, whose opinions are usually accepted as gospel are split up on the question, it has been found. Meanwhile tourist guides are up in the air.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. August 13, one arrest on a charge of drunkenness.

Safety Director D. O. Davies, having had passed an ordinance providing for an increase of seven members to the paid fire department, the mayor, C. B. Mayne, has requested the civil service board for police to hold an examination to secure a list of eligibles. There is a list of eligibles for the fire department at present, but none for police. The city proposes to obey the state law which says that firemen and police shall have a day of rest in every seven. According to Safety Director Davies this obedience will require an increase of seven new firemen. The department of police has operated far short of its quota since the inauguration of Mayor Mayne and although he has requested an examination he does not propose to add many to the force.

Police cars travelled 7,391 miles during July, according to statistics compiled by Miss Marjorie Davies, clerk in the department of police. The motorcycle has not operated for some time due to the assignment of Ray Showalter to a cruiser car during the vacation period. It required 680 gallons of gasoline to keep the engines purring.

Two seldom seen sights met the gaze of city hallites who left the building yesterday. One was a girl of probably 18 in shorts and the other a small girl in overalls. The latter had her hair bobbed boyish fashion and judging from the way she ran through Washington street she might prove another Stella Walsh some day.

A calm precedes every storm which may be one of the reasons why Chief of Police John F. Haven yesterday issued orders that all weapons in the department of police be cleaned thoroughly. The department has a machine gun, automatic rifles, pump-guns, gas guns and various kind of gas bombs.

Another useful article purchased for the department of police with money derived from the boxing bouts last winter is on the desk of the detectives. It is to all appearances a flashlight. However, when illuminated it can be placed over any bill suspected of being a counterfeit. It is so strong it brings out all defects. Most of the banks purchased one of these new lights at the same time the police secured one.

Willis G. McMullen has not yet received word from the national bureau of identification as to the identity of the negro fatally injured by an auto in Atlantic avenue recently. . . . During these warm days the doors on the offices of the various councilmen are kept open, except during conferences.

OPENING, SHEARING DEPARTMENT PICNIC

It was announced today that on Saturday, August 24, the opening and shearing departments of the Shenango Tin Mill will hold their second annual outing.

The committees in charge are preparing a most interesting program. Joseph Nocera announced that the picnic grounds have not as yet been selected.

Giants And Cards In Crucial Test

Double Bill At Polo Grounds Opens Important Series Today For Giants

DETROIT TIGERS TOPPLE YANKS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Five weeks ago, it all seemed so simple. We were to have that glorious project known as the 5-cent world series between the Giants and Yankees, especially arranged by local idealists, and everybody was to ride to it with a strap in his hand, which certainly was a superb inducement. Today, the New York Giants will set about seeing whether as much as half of this splendid program can be salvaged before a lot of vulgar outlanders from the other side of the railroad tracks climb in over the back fence and take our tricycle.

Double Bill

The occasion will be a double header opening a five game series between the Giants and Cardinals in front of 45,000 people at the Polo grounds this afternoon, an event that may very well win and lose the National League pennant.

The thing will be strictly the Gas House versus Culture and Refinement, the vulgarian Cards representing the former. They are strictly no gentlemen, with hairy arms and manslaughter in their hearts; whereas the Giants are all for art. Art ran right down the middle of Boulevard De Sweeney last September but this year its doing better.

The Giants opened the series behind a 3 game lead, meaning that all they had to do was take two out of five to stay in front. In spite of the 3 game lead, one out of five won't do, owing to the comical condition of the National League standing, which currently shows the Giants three games in front of the Cardinals in second place and only 2½ games in front of the Chicago Cubs in third place.

Giants Favored

Anyhow, art and refinement are even favored by the callous, uncultured bookmakers for purposes of this series. In the first place, the Giants are well ahead of the rival outfit on the season's series at 9 victories to 4, having taken four out of six in St. Louis at a time when they were doing the Levinsky gavotte in a neutral corner and begging for the bell. In the second place, the Deans won twelve out of twelve from the Giants last year; whereas Paul's record this time is two won and lost three and that of Delerious, none and lost two.

Most of the local observers are hailing this as the pay-off series of the year but this need not be so—unless the Giants win five out of five. Even if they did, it will be well to consider the fact that they finish on the road this year, which has a slightly sinister sound. The last time, they went awry with a nine game lead and came back with three, which, judiciously speaking, is not finishing on the road, but strictly in the middle of your haircut.

Boyles A. C. Tops West Side Tigers

Boyles A. C. baseball team topped the West Side Tigers, 4 to 2 yesterday at Lee avenue field, with McGregor hurling a three-hitter and fanning 16 men. Hannon on the knoll for the West Siders allowed six hits and whiffed nine men.

The leading slugger of the game was Muse with a triple and double, and Schooley with a pair of doubles. The Boyles A. C. bunched hits in two innings the first and seventh for their victory.

WIN FORFEIT GAME

The Keystone A. C. junior soft ball team won a forfeit game from the Young Syrians when the latter team failed to show up for the game scheduled Tuesday at the Carnegie field. Thursday morning the Keys will battle the strong South Side Castles at B. & O. field. G. Ross and Merando asked to take notice.

Trainor-Melvin Are Favorites In Amateur Tourney

New Castle Field Club Star And Franklin High Boy Will Be Among Leaders

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—Approximately 100 golfers were to tee off today in the 18-hole qualifying round of the annual Western Pennsylvania district amateur championships at the South Hills Country Club here.

Jack Benson, of the home club, headed the list of entries as the defending champion. Plenty of opposition, however, was expected from such golfers as Barrett Melvin, the sensational 17-year-old Franklin high school student, and John Graham, who won the title in 1929. Another favorite contender will be Dr. George T. Gregg, Oakmont, holder of the West Penn senior title.

Other district stars who will take part are: George Trainor, New Castle; Claude McKee, South Hills; Regis Wolff, captain and coach of the University of Pittsburgh golf team; Billy Marks, Oakmont, and Knox Young, Shannopin.

Four sixteens will evolve from the qualifying round. First and second rounds of match play are scheduled for tomorrow, with the semi-finals and final rounds to be played Friday.

Cangie Plans To Borrow Players

Must Reinforce Team As Scaglione And Huff Are On Injured List

Mahoning will seek star players on other Lawrence County teams for the game with Sewickley, Sunday, Manager Nick Cangie announced today. He has to do so because Scaglione and Huff are on the casualty list and will be unable to play. Cangie hopes to borrow Cracraft and a couple other stars and probabilities are that when he does present his lineup against Sewickley in the benefit game at Centennial field he will have one of the strongest lineups possible hereabouts. He is anxious to get in touch with Raney Orlando, Nick Calvanese, Mike Orlando and Announcer, Jack Dougal.

Kelty's Defeat Cold Rolls 4-3

The winners found Kendra for only four hits, but managed to Squeeze out a victory. Abramski, Mike and Seneski were the chief sluggers in the game.

Nine Starters In Hambletonian

Goshen, N. Y., Is Agog Today Over Staging Of Harness Race

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Sports Writer

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 14—A hundred years ago Goshen was a sleepy little village nestling in a hollow of the Ramapo mountains.

Since then it has sent its sons forth to fight in the Mexican war, the late unpleasantness between the states, the Indian wars, the Spanish war and the world war.

Today it is the same sleepy old village, dozing peacefully between wars and talking horse—always talking horse—for this, of course, is the home of Hambletonian the tenth from whom all great trotters draw their blood lines.

Nine Starters

A century ago Hambletonian—bought for $200 by a man with an eye for a great horse—was roaming the hills hereabouts, enriching his young owner to the extent of some $200,000 in stud fees, and laying the foundation for that long line of horses which was to stamp the American trotter and pacer as the greatest on earth.

Today some of his descendants will go to the post in the tenth renewal of a race named in his honor—the Hambletonian—which is to the trotter what the Kentucky Derby is to the runners.

Nine have been named to start and for the first time in history a gray gelding has been made an overwhelming favorite. This is Greyhound, E. J. Baker's unbeaten three year old, driven by the veteran Seppalin, and which may be quoted as short as 2 to 5 at post time. theiat

TINWORKERS STUDY PLANT AT GARY

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 14.—Representatives of workers of the Farrell Works of the American Sheet and Tinplate Co., have returned from Gary, Ind., where they studied working conditions of the company's plants there, and the methods of producing tinplate that differ from the methods employed at the local plant.

The visit to the Gary plant was the first step in a plan of Farrell tin mill representatives to devise means of retaining the tinplate industry in the Shenango Valley.

TO MAKE PROJECTS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14—Three of Pittsburgh's first WPA workers today were looking forward to their first pay check. They were the vanguard of 300 technical workers who will be placed in the "project to make projects."

Mayor William McNair, however, had other plans, and ndicated that he will veto city council's program to finance the city's $6,000,000 share in the huge work plan.

DAVIS-UNIONS POSTPONE

According to an announcement by Manager Texie Richards and Harry B. Strasbaugh today the scheduled Davis and Union game for Lehigh field is called off. The game will be played at a later date.

Eric Hardy, organizer of the bird section of the Naturalists' Field club of Liverpool, England, has started one of the greatest tasks ever attempted by an ornithologist. He will count 10,000,000 birds. The counting and classification may require several years.

Obese or overweight people are more susceptible to diabetes than others.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Herbert Bagur, 20, jockey, searched at the paddock at Lincoln Fields, Chicago, before he was lifted into the saddle to ride Haggerson in the second race and from his left sleeve the stewards who did the exploring extracted an electric battery. It was removed from his person and he was allowed to fill the engagement. When Bagur returned to the scales to weigh in he was ordered to pack his belongings and leave the track. After he left he was ruled off Illinois tracks for life.

Tom Berry tossed his crutches aside yesterday and drove Gibson White's Rosalind of Lexington, Ky., to a new season's record for 2-year-old trotters in the Good Time pures. Rosalind took two straight heats in 2:04 3-4. Prince Dale won the three-year-old pace in 2:04½ and Fez took the 2:24 trot in 2:04½.

Yanks-Tigers Seeking Flag

Yankees On Important Western Jaunt, Defeat Indians, 8 To 2

DETROIT LOSES TO WASHINGTON

By TONY PUGLIESE
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The New York Yankees are on the spot!

Out in the cold, friendless hinterland on their last western trip of the season, the Yankees face the task of bringing the fast flying Detroit Tigers back to the rest of the pack—and the Yankees know the only way to do this is to win ball games, and then with some more.

Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Bengals says:

"Our club is strong in every position. After a slow start they rounded into form, and while we keep this pace no club will beat us out of our second successive American league pennant.

Joe McCarthy, who looks after the interests of the Ruppertmen, replies, although none too bravely:

"Don't count us out yet. We have a good team, and some of the new men are just becoming acclimated. We'll raise plenty of trouble from here in."

Defeat Indians

Backing up their manager's statements, the Yanks took an 8 to 2 decision from the Cleveland Indians, who before yesterday's game had taken four out of seven from the New Yorkers at Cleveland. The Yanks behind Charley Ruffing's 4-hit pitching, and aided by four Indian errors, which accounted for six unearned runs, walked in to victory.

The Tigers' lead over the Yanks was pared to five games, as Earl Whitehill, ex-Tiger hurler, came back to his old haunts and held the Detroiters to seven hits, as the Washington Senators triumphed, 4 to 3, in 10 innings.

Red Sox Win

Bill Werber's home run led a 14-hit assault on Johnny Whitehead and Jack Salveson, as the Boston Red Sox beaned the Chicago White Sox 9 to 5. Johnny Welch allowed nine safeties, and pitched the Bostonians into third place in the league standings.

In St. Louis, the Philadelphia Athletics pounded out 17 hits off Coffman, Thomas, Walkup and Poser, and defeated the lowly St. Louis Browns, 14 to 1.

No National league games were scheduled.

AUDIAS DEFEAT ROSS TEAM, 7-5

In the first of a series of three games for the midget title of the city, Audias mushball team handed the strong Ross A. C. team a 7-5 trimming, in a fast contest played yesterday on the B. & O. field. Isaacs had four hits.

Love for Dick—or All the Wealth and Security Jim Could Offer—Which Should it Be? Modern Youth Meets the Problem Fairly and Courageously.

Illustrated by
A. G. SKRENDA

"You'll be happy there, Dick. You'll get well fast in the country air and there's a room with a good north light that'll be just the thing for you when you start working seriously again."

McClure Fiction

BARBARA drove slowly past the clubhouse looking for a hole along the curb in which to park but it was not until she reached the middle of the next block that she found an open space. She backed in smartly making what she was pleased to call "a perfect landing", and cut off the ignition; then she got out and walked back toward the clubhouse.

The Annual Dance of the Beaverbrook Country Club was already in progress; muffled strains of dance music filled the quiet street and Barbara knew from the number of cars, that the place would be crowded.

She walked rapidly, her straight litle nose and one corner of her mouth twitching slightly; she was very young, so the twitch had an odd charm. She was fighting with that threatening panic again and as she turned into the flagstone walk leading to the entrance her agitation increased. They would both be there, both waiting for her—and tonight she would be driven to lose one in order to keep one; since it was impossible to keep both indefinitely. And she couldn't bear the thought of letting either of them go.

In the vestibule she was greeted noisily by a group of young people who had been lounging near the entrance; then one particular young man took quiet possession of her, removing her jacket and smiling with shy, inarticulate friendliness into her eyes.

"Thanks, Dick," Barbara said breathlessly and running her fingers nervously through the short hair at the back of her head she looked past him into the lounge.

She saw him at once standing by the fireplace, his head inclined deferentially as he listened to Judge Frazier, her uncle, who was laying down the law from the depths of an armchair. The man did not raise his eyes. He must have been aware that the sudden clamor portended Barbara's arrival but he gave no visible sign.

She stood watching him, disappointed that he did not seek her glance yet fearing that he might. The orchestra struck up a new number. Dick placed a warm hand on her arm and said, "Come on, Babs, let's dance."

Barbara held back a little. " No, not now, Dick," she said half pleadingly. "I want to say hello to uncle first."

Dick looked back over his shoulder in the direction of the lounge. "Oooh, I see," he muttered comprehendingly. And releasing her arm he added with exaggerated nonchalance, "Well, it's okay by me. I'll be seeing you."

Barbara followed him with her eyes until he disappeared into the ball room. Then, her head raised confidently and a little arrogantly so that one might not guess how her heart was beating she walked swiftly into the lounge.

" 'Lo, Uncle John," she said gaily and bent to kiss him.

The Judge held her hand patting it affectionately. "You've met Mr. Forbes, our District Attorney, haven't you, my dear?"

"Jim and I are old friends," she said smiling, "though I'm afraid he hasn't forgiven me for making him dance so much at Janet's party last week."

"On the contrary," Jim Forbes said. "And I came tonight in the hope of getting more lessons."

Judge Frazier smiled on them. "That's right! Clever little girl. Teach you a lot you don't know about flowers, too — landscape gardening and all that sort of thing. Isn't that so, kiddy?"

"Oh, well, a girl must have something to fall back on. Mother says I have a passion for flowers but I think that dancing is my real passion," said Barbara looking at Jim Forbes.

"Shall we go in and dance, then?" he said, and taking her arm led her out of the room.

Dick saw them come in together, saw the elaborate unconcern of Barbara's manner and chose to interpret it to his own pain.

"Are we dancing this?" he asked roughly.

"It's difficult to resist you, sweetheart," said Barbara turning a frosty smile over her shoulder, "but we are not."

Dick merely snorted, joined the stagline, and a moment later had found himself another partner.

JIM FORBES struggling manfully under Barbara's guidance found himself watching this gliding young god with something approaching resentment. Dick was "showing off", and Barbara without giving him a glance was yet conscious that his new partner was no handicap to him.

"That was lovely, Jim," she said when the music stopped. They passed very close to Dick as they went out. He was beautifully engrossed.

"You're a swell dancer, Eleanor," he was saying. "I could dance with you all night."

"Listen, Barbara," Jim Forbes said after a while, "I've got to go in a minute. When are you going to let me drive you down to Hempstead? I've told mother all about you and she wants you to come down for the week-end. At the same time you could look over the garden and help me to re-plan it. What do you say?"

"Phone me about it," she said airily and rather rudely. But outside—"It was sweet of your mother to ask me down, Jim," she said, a note of humility in her voice. "Of course I'd love to go. I'm not sure about this week, though. Phone me anyway."

"I'll call you Thursday," said Jim. "Goodnight. And many thanks for the lesson." He pressed her fingers and was gone.

"Well, Mrs. District Attorney?" came a very hard, very young voice behind her.

Barbara turned swiftly. "Dick! Don't be a fool! Someone might hear you."

Dick laughed. "Having eyes, they must have seen that you hung on to that darned old woman's coat tails to the very doorstep. Surely they don't need anyone to tell them."

"Mr. Forbes is my friend," Barbara said frigidly. "I'm sorry if I cut your dances for him but you didn't seem to mind very much."

"Oh, that!" The scorn was superb. "As a matter of fact, I never gave it a thought. Eleanor, you see, is that kind of a dancer—she makes you forget everything else. Will you have a cigarette?"

"Thanks!" Her voice was steady and he couldn't see her lips quivering. "Since you've found such a good partner you won't mind if I break our date next Saturday. I've half promised Mr. Forbes I'll go with him to Hempstead for the week-end."

"Of course I don't mind," Dick said. He struck a match, shielding the flame with muscular young hands that trembled a little. Barbara had forgotten that accepting a cigarette necessitated a light. Dick bent forward holding the flame close to her face.

"Why Babs! You're crying!"

She shook her head wildly and fled down the lawn. He caught up with her by the lilac bushes and put awkward eager young arms about her.

"You precious crazy little kitten!" he murmured against her hair.

She put tentative fingers up to his cheek. "And you're such a big fool, Dick!" she whispered, smiling through her tears.

NO PARTY was given to celebrate their engagement, nor was there an announcement of any kind. Barbara's parents were frankly delighted, for Dick, though only two years out of Boston Tech, was already showing signs of a promising career.

But Barbara would grow restless if either Dick or her parents tried to set a date for the wedding. "Why can't we just drive down to City Hall and do it quietly? It all seems so silly, anyway!" she said, and turning to Dick, "Don't you think so, Angel-face?"

"I'd like it to be tomorrow," Dick said clearing his throat, "if Barbara's perfectly certain she can put up with the poverty. For a while anyway, it'll be a case of love in a two room apartment and—"

"Nonsense!" Barbara put in with bright cheeks. "Give me a two room apartment every time and if you'll put in a few labor-saving devices I'll forego some of the love."

Later that same evening when Dick left, Barbara walked with him to the curb where his flivver was parked.

"What are you doing tomorrow?" Dick asked as he got in behind the wheel.

"I may drive down to Hempstead in the the morning," Barbara said, somewhat hurriedly. "Jim's mother wants me to—"

"Jim's mother!" Dick cut in sharply. "Why the devil don't you move down there and be done with it! You'd think she—"

"Why, Dick!" Barbara was aghast. "What in the world has come over you?"

"Oh, nothing," Dick growled. "Never mind. Good-night!"

THE CAR shot out with a jerk. Barbara watched it as it raced down the street and heard a moment later, the squealing of tires as it disappeared around the corner. She turned back up the drive feeling miserable and hurt.

And it seemed less than five minutes before Dick was back—brought back into the hall; and somewhere in the haze that blurred that moment of sickening unreality, a policeman's uniform, many people with grave faces.

"He drove right through the red light," someone was saying, "and was hit by another car. He was still conscious when we pulled him out, and asked to be brought here."

The doctor's voice came evenly: "We must get him to the hospital—he'll be conscious in a moment."

Barbara walked steadily into the room and looked down into the twitching face that had been washed clean of blood.

"Dick," she said clearly. "Dick, speak to me."

Mrs. Hutchins came over and gently led Barbara out of the room.

"Oh, Mother, it's all my fault," Barbara sobbed. "He went away hating me, hating me. . . I made him do it. . ."

But there was plenty of drama to heal her young soul when weeks later she rode from the hospital beside Dick—poor crippled Dick with his almost useless left leg and his almost useless right arm.

The wedding had been postponed indefinitely, Barbara having refused with fine scorn and inelegant language to accept Dick's offer of freedom. But after two months of convalescence and Barbara's constant company, Dick's conscience pricked him.

"You're looking tired, Babs, and God knows you ought to be. You need a change badly. Why don't you accept Forbes' long standing invitation and you and your mother go down to Hempstead for the week-end?"

The color came slowly to Barbara's face and faded out again. "You'd brood too much, Dick — and I haven't seen Jim for ages."

But the doctor too, had noticed Barbara's condition and, alarmed by it, ordered a complete change. Jim Forbes pressed his invitation and Barbara and her mother went for a week.

AT LAST Barbara came back—a terribly quiet Barbara forever gazing miles beyond you. Her gentleness to him was almost more than Dick could bear. It savored too much of pity. And where once she had gloried in the notice people took of them as she walked beside his wheel-chair, now she seemed to resent it.

The more Barbara became resentful of public sympathy, the more Dick's fears grew. She went riding more often with Jim Forbes and always came back restless and dreamy eyed and terribly kind. When the final blow came Dick told himself that he had guessed it all along.

They found a scrawled note when they came down one morning:

I can't stand it any longer. I must do something, so I'm going to Hempstead—I may be late but don't worry and for Heaven's sake don't phone or fuss. Love—

Barbara.

The day dragged on to its close. Mr. Hutchins was buried behind the evening paper and Mrs. Hutchins sat with an unopened magazine on her knee. Dick, his wheel-chair up against the table, was presumably absorbed in a jig-saw puzzle. But each knew the time to the minute.

Mrs. Hutchins looked over at Dick with tired eyes but her voice was quite calm. "Won't you let Mr. Hutchins take you up? You'll see Barbara in the morning," she said.

The boy raised a drawn face. " I'd rather wait for Barbara, if you don't mind. She won't be long now."

The clock struck eleven and Mr. Hutchins turned the paper noisily. Dick endeavored to concentrate on the puzzle.

Eleven-thirty. Mr. Hutchins dozed spasmodically, emphasizing his complete wide-awakeness by noisily rustling the paper at intervals.

Twelve. . .Twelve-fifteen. . .Twelve-thirty.

Dick heard it first—the faint hum of a car, then the changing gears at the corner and the nearer hum and rattle as it turned up the drive.

"That sounds like Barbara," Mrs. Hutchins said calmly as if it were six o'clock and they were waiting dinner for her.

Before Dick had swung his wheel-chair around, the front door opened. Barbara came across the hall humming, and into the room.

"Everybody up?" she queried, pulling off her gloves. "Ye gods, it was cold driving back! You ought to be in bed, Dick."

Mrs. Hutchins laid her magazine on the table and said: "Would you like some tea, dear?"

"Yes, please, Mother." Barbara was bending over Dick's shoulder. "How's the puzzle, Dick?"

"I don't seem to be able to finish it," he said huskily.

Barbara was turning some of the pieces around trying to fit them into the pattern. She stopped suddenly pushing the puzzle away with a jerk.

"Oh, I give up," she said impatiently. "They're much too hard for me. But you are clever at them, Dick."

Dick felt as though his heart would burst.. He pushed his chair away roughly.

"Clever!" he almost shouted. "That damned child's play! And that's all I'm fit for now. Heavens! I don't wonder you're all tired of me. I don't blame you. I can't see how you put up with me so long." His voice dropped to a hoarse whisper. "Well, tell me. Let's have it. I'm ready for it." He looked up for the first time into Barbara's face and his own was suddenly convulsed.

"Oh, I'm sorry, Babs. I must be crazy. Please forgive me. You've been splendid—one in a million—and I'll always be grateful that you stuck to me this long. I'm sure Jim Forbes'll make you happy. He's a fine chap and he loves you. God knows, I'll never be anything but a burden. . ."

"Jim is a dear," Barbara said musingly. "But I don't happen to be in love with him. So, my dear, you'll have to think of something else if you're set on getting rid of me." She laughed lightly and went on: "It was Jim's mother I went to see and I've arranged with her to rent that little place down by the river and turn it into a flower farm. For the work I put in on her gardens she's not going to make me pay any rent till next summer after the flower season—and after that there oughtn't to be any difficulty."

MR. HUTCHINS stood with his back to the fireplace. "You mean the place they call The Bowers," he said thoughtfully. "I know the place. There isn't a soul living within three miles of it. Do you suppose we are going to let you live there alone?"

"Alone?" Barbara repeated. "Why, there'll be Dick of course, and a gardener. Mrs. Forbes is going to pay him at first and I thought that perhaps you'd let us have one of the maids, Mother. The soil's grand! It's bound to pay."

She moved closer to Dick, and slipped her arm around his shoulder. "You'll be happy there, Dick. You'll get well fast in the country air and there's a room with a good north light that'll be just the thing for you when you start working seriously again." She drew his head up to her shoulder. " So if you'll just name the day, I'll blush becomingly and lisp my modest willingness to become your beauteous bride. "

She kissed him quickly on the cheek and giving him a little push turned away from him.

"I believe I could eat something," she said not quite steadily. "No, don't bother, Mother. I'll get it myself." And with very bright eyes she left the room.

A great silence followed that for a moment seemed to deepen throughout the house. Then muffled sounds from the kitchen began filtering through the doors and suddenly the louder sound of a plate crashing to the floor followed by a sharp angry "Damn!"

"I wish Barbara wouldn't swear the way she does," Mr. Hutchins said with a frown. "I've spoken to her several times about it but it hasn't seemed to do much good. Well, son," he added turning to Dick with a smile, "that'll be your job from now on. I hope you'll have better luck than I've had."

Dick turned slowly in his chair and for once in his life became beautifully articulate.

"Somehow," he said, "it doesn't sound like swearing to me. You see, Mr. Hutchins, Barbara herself is so divine."

FLEETWING DEWBERRY'S daughter went to a party the other evening and left the grandson, Frankie, at home. He ordinarily goes to bed at 8 but this evening he was evidently out for a time and didn't close his big black eyes until 2 a. m. But tough as it was for Fleetwing to lose his sleep, he enjoyed the evening because he found that he was just as much an artist in changing didies as when he helped bring up his 8 little Dews. This changing didies is like swimming. Once you learn how, you never forget. So folks, change over to Frank Dewberry's Fleetwing gas and we will all be happy including the grandchildren. 1t—6

Stock Market Turns Upward

Oils, Coppers, and Liquors Lead Way In Upturn Of Market Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The stock market turned upward today after early hesitation, with oils, coppers and liquors providing new leadership.

Profit-taking was heavy and acted as a restraining influence but failed to make much of an impression on prices.

The new break in silver was reflected only in some pressure on the silver shares. U. S. Smelting fell 2 points and Cerro De Pasco nearly a point. Otherwise it was without influence.

Business news was mixed. Steel operations rose further to the highest level since February. Power output made a less favorable showing while railroad traffic was lower. The industrial section was spotty. Motors marked time again. Steels rose only slightly in response to the bullish operating statistics. Equipments were quiet. Farm implements improved, led by Case Threshing and Deere, on good earnings estimates.

Utilities started off strong and active but subsided quickly. The power production figures were a factor as well as the desire to await determination of the status of the holding company bill.

Gains in the liquors ran to more than a point following passage by the senate of the modified control bill.

The big decline in gasoline stocks for the week stimulated the oils. Low-priced issues were prominent.

Rails turned dull after an active and higher opening. A few forged ahead, notably Atlantic Coast Line and the Erie preferreds.

Heavy buying came into the coppers. Aviations were somewhat higher but trading was small. Amusement issues were steady and rubbers quiet. Chemicals did little. American Can was down in the blue chips while American Telephone was forced to absorb heavy profit-taking after its runup of the last few days.

Strength abroad provided support for grains while cotton declined. Bonds were firm. The dollar lost ground against foreign currencies.

May Arbitrate Shipyard Tieup

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Belief that an agreement would be reached within the next few days for arbitration of the dispute between Camden shipyard workers and the New York Shipbuilding company was expressed today by assistant secretary of navy Henry L. Roosevelt.

Although Col. Roosevelt said it was "possible" that an agreement might be reached late today, he indicated that it probably would not be until a day or two later.

Col. Roosevelt declined to state on what reasons he based the hope that there would be an agreement within the next few days, except to say that he was "optimistic."

"We are working very seriously and are still in negotiation with the various interested parties," he said. "I am optimistic that we will be able to reach a basis on which to arbitrate. I have every hope that he will reach a solution of the problem through arbitration on both sides."

Dr. Ralph Willard May Leave Coast

Gets Invitation To Conduct "Human Experimentation" In New York Laboratory

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14.—As he prepared to attempt to revive a second monkey which is lying frozen in his electric refrigerator, Ralph Willard, Hollywood chemist, today declared he has received offers urging him to move his laboratory to New York.

Willard refused to disclose identity of the reported New York sponsor for his proposed "freezing to death" experiment with a human taking the place of the conventional guinea pig of science.

"I have received an invitation to go to New York and I am considering it," Willard said. "However, I prefer not to name the correspondent until I have decided definitely."

Willard claims to have frozen one monkey to death and to have revived it after it had been kept in a state of suspended animation in his refrigerator for more than eight days, and now desires to conduct the experiment with a human.

Stephen Simkhovitch, Hollywood writer, has volunteerd for the role of "human guinea pig". But a deluge of protests agianst the experiment with a human has made it appear unlikely Willard could conduct the test in his Hollywood laboratory.

Seek Guardian For Aged Father

Man 82 Is Involved In Court Case, Married Former Daughter-In-Law

GREENSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 14.—Hearing on a petition presented by Roy Aller, Mt. Pleasant, for appointment of a guardian for his 82-year-old father opened here today before Judge W. T. Dom.

The hearing revived interest in the Aller family, which recently made news when it was revealed that the father, Wilson H. Aller, married a woman who was previously married to another of his sons, William Aller.

Not Reliable

In his testimony, Roy Aller said that he and his father had lived in Mt. Pleasant for the past 40 years. He testified his father "is unreliable and can't transact business," adding that the present estate of the aged man consists of an Ohio farm, a house in Mt. Pleasant and five bank shares.

Under cross examination, the witness admitted he never actually handled any business for his father, other than witnessing a few papers and the like. He also said his father is his creditor to the extent of about $500.

The elder Aller, accompanied by his young wife, and her two children by a previous marriage, sat quietly in the courtroom during the hearing.

Police Thwarted In Effort To Raid Big Gambling Ships

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—The police department's boatless sea-going gambling squad today awaited a dense fog that they may creep up on Chicago's two gambling ships anchored in Lake Michigan, unobserved.

Police Captain (Skipper) William J. O'Brien planned to raid Master Sam Zito's good ship "Sam's Showboat" and Master Pete Karger's "Sea Dog" yesterday but his able seamen mutinied, refusing to row two miles to the anchorages. And by the time a power boat was secured everybody knew about the proposed raids and the ship's gambling equipment was safely stowed away.

Kiwanians Hear Of State Police Work At Session

Lieut. Boettner Of Butler Address Club At Meeting At Noon

Kiwanians leaned today of the arduous training undergone by a young man before he is commissioned as an officer in the Pennsylvania State Police, when Lieutenant Thomas F. Boettner of Butler addressed the club at noon.

Lieutenant Boettner told of the care in selecting of the candidates and after they have passed the rigid investigation into their character and physical abilities what their course of instruction is. Pistol practice, horsemanship, discipline, law, all of them have a place and when a man is turned out as an officer it is safe to assume that he is morally and physically fit.

The club made arrangements today for a corn and wiener roast on Wednesday, August 21 at the camp of H. Lee Marvin. On August 28 Senator George T. Weingartner will speak on "Constitutional Revision."

Young Republicans Are Admonished By State Chairman

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—Young Republicans of Pennsylvania were called upon by their state chairman today to make themselves "sentinels of the voting list" in a mobilization drive for the primary and November election battles.

"August is the month for mobilization," John Y. Wills, chairman of the Young Republican State Committee declared in an appeal for what he termed an "old-fashioned Republican rally."

"Hhe challenge to young Republicans is clear: we want to do everything we can to swell the total of registered Republicans in Pennsylvania," he said. We want this army of sane, solid citizens assembled under the Republican banner as soon as possible."

Alleged Holdup Man Is Hunted

Young Man Held For Attempted Robbery Of Night Club, Names Companion

(International News Service)

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Aug. 14.—Authorities today sought Joe Yannisavich, 27, for questioning in connection with an alleged attempt to hold up the night club of Eugene Yanni, near here.

In Adrian hospital with wounds suffered when he was shot during the purported robbery attempt, Walter Steinberg, 18, was said to have admitted the attempt to Squire Christ Stamler, of Rossiter. Stamler further quoted Steinberg as stating Yannisavich had "engineered" the plot to rob the roadhouse.

Yannisavich, according to Stamler, has a police record. He disappeared after Steinberg was shot and has not been heard from since. Informations against both youths were filed by Yanni.

The alleged robbery attempt was made on August 4. When Yanni saw two youths he believed about to break into his club, he called to them to surrender. When they attempted to escape, he said, he fired at them. Steinberg was shot in the leg.

Congressmen Are Irritated By Heat

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—While "mere male" members of congress cry for adjournment to preserve their health, the "feminine bloc" goes goes right on without complant.

Mrs. Caroline O'Day (D) of New York, a close friend of Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, pointed out that the half dozen women members of the house have been on the floor right along during the terrific heat.

But the hot weather has frayed the nerves of the male members, with the result that in both senate and house bitter personal attacks are made almost every day.

"It will be amusing, if not tragic the way the long session and heat have played havoc with the men," observed Mrs. O'Day.

"They say things that after reflection they take out of the congressional record. Every day I hear remarks behind me—and when they realize I'm present they withdraw them.

"But I have brought up two boys, and the language frequently makes me homesick."

Family On Relief

Rep. Frank E. Hook

Member of Congress from Michigan at $10,000 a year, Rep. Frank E. Hook of Ironwood readily admitted his father, mother and four brothers had been on relief rolls. "I supported them all my life and I do not intend to do it again while other people are receiving relief," says the solon, who asks investigation of welfare conditions in his district.

Zenge's Plea Of Not Guilty Taken Off Court Record

Continue Arraignment Until September 9, Zenge Talked Out Of Turn

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Mandeville W. Zenge's ringing cry of "not guilty" to an indictment charging him with the mutilation murder of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, Kirksville, Mo., chemistry professor who married Zenge's sweetheart, had been stricken from the records today.

So eager was the Missouri farm boy to carry his innocence of the savage crime that he pleaded before his counsel had a chance to speak.

If left standing the plea would have precluded all motions attacking the indictment. Counsel for the lovelorn Zenge obtained permission to withdraw the plea at the arraignment yesterday, and the hearing was continued until September 9.

GUARD REFUSES A NEW ARMORY!

(International News Service)

SARCOXIE, Mo.—Here's another one for Ripley:

The Sarcoxie national guard unit, which uses an old theater building as its headquarters, was offered a new armory, to be built at a cost of $25,000.

Instead of readily accepting the proposition, Major Simmons, the commandant, was indignant. "It's entirely impractical," exploded the major, "there are only 15 men in the local guard unit, and we don't want a new armory—much less a $25,000 affair."

Delayed Divorce Hearing Resumed After Ten Years

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Gertrude Slater, of Tarentum, today got a hearing on a divorce petition she filed 10 years ago.

The suit was discontinued in 1925 when she became ill but was renewed, according to her attorney, when her husband, William Slater, of New Kensington, attempted to gain custody of their child, Eugene, 16. The boy testified he never saw his father and Mrs. Slater accused her husband of deserting her a month after they were married.

Will Prosecute Mrs. Goodrich

Wife Of Convicted Slayer Of Girl Is Arraigned In Detroit Court

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Aug. 14.—The state intends to prosecute Mrs. Florence Goodrich, wife of Merton Ward Goodrich, for having a share in the actual killing of Lillian Gallaher, 11, it was revealed for the first time today as she stood mute upon arraignment.

A plea of not guilty to murder charges was entered for her.

Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea accused the Ohio farm girl of participating in the actual murder of the child.

The revelation of the state's charge against her came as a bombshell in the courtroom. It had hitherto been supposed that Mrs. Goodrich was absent from the apartment when her husband attacked and strangled the child and hid her body in a trunk.

In the confessions of Goodrich and his wife, both said she did not know of the murder until after the couple had started their nine-month flight from justice. Goodrich repeatedly insisted she was innocent of anything but faithfulness to him.

Correct this sentence: "I shall get a nice sunburn," said the innocent, "And that will make me healthy."

Lloyd George Attacks Policy Of Government

Former Prime Minister Censors Government For Italo-Abyssinian Policy

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 14.—David Lloyd George, who was British prime minister during the World war, today severely attacked the present national government in Britain for its stand in the Italo-Abyssinian quarrel.

Lloyd George scored the government for not standing up definitely and openly against Italy, and for not taking the controversy squarely before the league of nations. His remarks were addressed to the Trade Union club meeting in London.

"The very country whose integrity and independence have been challenged has been ruled out of the Paris conference that is discussing its existence as an independent state," he said.
